Senator Russell Lashes Talmadge In Waycross Talk

Governor Linked by Opponent With Wall Street Bankers, Liberty League and Republican Enemies of President Roosevelt.

SENIOR SENATOR DEFENDS RECORD

Hurled at Talmadge for Declaring Pensioners Unfair to Farmer; Cuts Tariff Fight Told.

By L. A. FARRELL.
WAYCROSS, Ga., July 9.—(AP)—Welded a score of new links in the chain of his opponent, Governor Talmadge, with Wall Street bankers, Liberty Leaguers and republicans working for the defeat of President Roosevelt, and unleashing an assault on the Governor's fight against old-age pensions, Senator Richard B. Russell Jr. today called upon the people of Georgia to re-elect him his record of legislation designed to aid the masses of the people.

Senator Russell, who is completing the unexpired term of the late Senator William J. Harris, is seeking a six-year indorsement term.

Making his opening stump speech, the dedication of this city's new office and federal building, Senator Russell cited the major achievements of his brief term in the upper house of congress and declared that he has supported President Roosevelt generally he has not, as Governor Talmadge charges, been a "herd stamp" for the President or anyone else.

Braswell Deen Speaks.
Also on the program was Congressman Braswell Deen, of Alma, one of the opponents of Andrew Tuten, a Talmadge leader in the 1933 state election. Deen, opened his campaign re-election from the eighth district, which includes Waycross.

He might appraise when he said Talmadge and Chairman Hugh Howell of the state democratic committee would "in their effort to dictate to the people of this district for whom the people of the district shall vote for governor and congressmen."

Talmadge and Howell, Deen charged, continued in Page 9, Column 6.

Murphy Will Enter Race in Michigan

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(UP)—A New Deal today recruited another vote getter for its roster of state candidates when youthful, red-haired Jack Murphy offered his resignation as high commissioner to the Philippines to run for governor of Michigan.

The formal announcement of Murphy's candidacy probably will come tomorrow when he returns to Detroit, where he gained national political prominence as mayor before President Roosevelt appointed him as governor of the Philippines. He became high commissioner when the islands entered a 10-year transition period toward independence.

Triple Killer Calm On Execution Eve

SALT LAKE CITY, July 9.—(AP)—Triple Slayer Delbert Green apparently abandoned hope tonight of escaping a Utah firing squad at dawn.

Today, he sought a third, 10-hour stay, but Governor Henry H. Blood made it plain there would be no further move.

At 5 a. m., Green was told, Sheriff Joseph T. Holbrook will lead him into the yard—there to be backed against a wall, strapped into a chair and shot.

"I'm not afraid to go," Green said.

Like his mother, gray-haired Mrs. Lillie Mae Alexander, who still railed against the "law," Green contended to the last he was insane.

FRANKLIN SCORES COMMITTEE STAND

Eastman Judge To Carry Appeal on Candidacy to Committee Members.

Judge O. J. Franklin, of Eastman, will take his contention that he is a qualified candidate for the judgeship of the Oconee superior court circuit directly to members of the rules committee of the state democratic executive committee at a hearing set tentatively for July 21 or 22, it was announced yesterday.

F. D. R. IS ASSURED NO MAJOR STRIKE IS EXPECTED SOON

Green and A. F. of L. Council Begin Consideration of Accusations Against Lewis and Aids.

(Copyright, 1936, by the United Press.)
WASHINGTON, July 9.—(UP)—Powerful trade union leaders have assured President Roosevelt there is no likelihood of major strikes in steel or other basic industries which will hurt business and possibly affect New Deal fortunes at the polls in November, it was learned tonight.

The chief executive, concerned over reports of widespread labor unrest, summoned three influential figures to his desk within the past 48 hours for a complete picture of the situation as he prepared to depart on a three-week holiday. They were President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, and Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGraw.

The trio told Mr. Roosevelt that, with the exception of sporadic labor outbursts and uncertainties surrounding the sprawling steel industry, there was comparative industrial peace. The chief executive was said to be deeply concerned about the split in the ranks of the A. F. of L. over the question of craft and industrial unions, and there were published reports he was seeking to negotiate a truce between the warring factions headed by Green and Lewis.

Green is Silent.
Green, battling to preserve the federation's craft union policy, said after a White House visit yesterday that the struggle was not mentioned. Today, however, when pressed by reporters, he refused comments on reports that the question of maintaining peace in labor's own ranks had been reviewed at the meeting.

Lewis, who with nine other union leaders formed the committee for Industrial Organization to promote industrial unionism in the mass production industries, said on leaving the White House today he did not consider his

GOVERNOR FOUGHT FREE TEXT BOOKS

Richmond Legislator Says Talmadge Told Him He Opposed Plan.

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 9.—(AP)—Denying that Governor Eugene Talmadge was responsible in any way for a plan announced recently giving free school books to students, William D. Lanier, veteran legislator from Richmond county, today criticized the state's chief executive for what he termed his "deathbed conversion."

Senator Russell Asks Indorsement Term

Asking an indorsement term on his record in support of President Roosevelt's program, Senator Richard B. Russell Jr. is shown above as he was photographed yesterday at Waycross making the opening stump speech of his campaign. In his address, Senator Russell charged that Governor Talmadge, his opponent, is the rubber stamp of the Du Pont-Raskob group of financiers who are opposing the re-election of President Roosevelt. ## MANDATE FOR WAR LOOMS IN NANKING Special Delegation To Formulate Reply to Southern Government.

NANKING, July 10.—(Friday)—A virtual mandate to launch war against recalcitrant Kwangsi province was expected to be handed to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek at an emergency session today of the Kuomintang central executive committee.

One hundred fifty Kuomintang stalwarts from all parts of China, whose loyalty to the national government and willingness to follow every Chiang Kai-shek bidding without questioning, comprised the session called to formulate Nanking's reply to the insurgency of the southwestern Chinese government.

The Kwangsi province has been the leading southwestern threat against Nanking during the past month. Among the delegation will be a handful of southwestern delegates likely to oppose the dictates of General Chiang Kai-shek.

The national government was believed already to have reached a compromise settlement with Kwangtung province involving lavish Nanking financial assistance to Canton, southwestern government seat.

But it was said all Nanking's efforts to Kwangsi have met with sharp rebuffs, causing the general to seek a war mandate from Kuomintang chiefs for a campaign against that province.

$35,000 DAMAGES AWARDED EDGAR FOR HEART BALM

Jury Finds Mallory Stole Love of Kathryn Crawford From Detroit Man; $300,000 Was Sought.

MIAMI, Fla., July 9.—(AP)—Six married jurors held tonight that Lewis E. Mallory III, youthful Pennsylvania oil heir, stole the love of Kathryn Crawford from her former husband, James Edgar Jr., of Detroit, and ordered him to pay $35,000 heart balm.

Edgar, 27-year-old scion of a wealthy Detroit sugar family, sued Mallory for $300,000, charging seduction and alienation of Miss Crawford's affections.

The jurors reported their verdict at 10:48 p. m. (eastern standard time) tonight, more than six hours after they received the case.

Mallory, 22, slim and curly-haired, declined comment. His attorney, John M. Murrell, of Miami, said he could not say immediately if there would be an appeal.

Edgar said merely, "I have nothing to say—the verdict speaks for itself."

The brunette Miss Crawford likewise was non-committal.

"What can I say?" asked the former actress.

Both Mallory and Miss Crawford had denied on the witness stand they ever committed indiscretions as charged by her former husband. The Edgars were divorced two weeks ago.

In his testimony, Mallory said Edgar told him after the suit had been filed he wanted only "satisfaction" and that any money won as heart balm would be used to create a trust fund for Miss Crawford—the residue of a church on her death.

The verdict climaxed five sensational days of testimony and argument. Circuit Judge Worth W. Trammell, who presided, came down from his bench to tell the jury in delivering his 45-minute charge late today.

NEW YORK METER HITS 145 DEGREES

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—The Weather Bureau's vacuum-enclosed thermometer in Central park said it was 145 degrees this afternoon.

The thermometer registers the intensity of the sun's rays. Today's reading was only four degrees short of the high mark of 149 in 1908.

The thermometer is enclosed in a glass sheath from which the air has been expelled.

The regular thermometer registered 102.3 degrees.

ROAD CONTRACTS TO BE LET TODAY

Highway Board To Open Bids on $1,500,000 Worth of Projects in Georgia.

Bids on 50 miles of new paving, 30 miles of resurfacing, 17 miles of grading and construction of 11 bridges in Georgia at an aggregate estimated cost of $1,500,000 will be opened today by the State Highway Department. Most of the lettings will be with federal funds.

Engineers said some of the projects had not been approved in time for today's letting and that the $2,000,000 previously set as the approximate value of the awards to be made today would not be reached.

Another letting is expected in August, Judge Max McRae, of the highway board, announced, but this far sufficient projects to make up a $1,000,000 letting at that time have not been approved.

Paving stretches on the Atlanta-Buford and the Atlanta-Augusta highways are not included on the list for today.

Bolt of Lightning Kills Mother at Work

No rain fell and there was only one flash of lightning. No other damage from the stroke could be found.

Mrs. Brannan is survived by her husband; three small children, the smallest being five months old; her father, Cliff Woods, of Henry county, and a sister, Sarah Woods, who made her home with the Brannans.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., July 9.—On the republican side there temporarily is a lull. Incredible though it sounds, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt Jr., is not getting ready to run for anything. At least he wasn't until 7:30 p. m. (New York standard daylight saving time). Later reports may change this. He likes running second.

MY COOKERY

By MISS RUTH CHAMBERS.

Sunday morning breakfast! They can be such pleasant occasions, starting off not only the day but the whole week, in special style. Breakfasts on holiday mornings, too, may be part of the celebration. The whole family can breakfast together, for a change, and if there is "company" staying at your house, so much the better. Instead of the sketchy meal, hurriedly eaten, which every-day breakfasts are likely to be in the average household, there is leisure to prepare and enjoy such dainty dishes as those given below. Of course, fruit or fruit juice, toast and your favorite breakfast beverage go with them.

Ham and Egg Ramekins.
One cup boiled, chopped ham, 4 eggs, 1/2 cup rich milk, 1-4 teaspoon salt, pepper, paprika.
Beat the eggs lightly without separating yolks and whites. Add salt, a dash of pepper and paprika. ham chopped very fine, and milk. Pour into buttered ramekins, set in a pan of hot water and bake in a slow oven. As a decorative touch, place a ring of pimiento in the center of each.

Ham Toast.
Two cups ham, minced; 3 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 6 double slices buttered toast, salt and pepper.

Combine butter and flour with milk to make a cream sauce. Moisten minced ham with sauce. Cut the rounds of toast into two sizes and arrange the larger ones on a hot serving dish. Heap with creamed ham and place the smaller round of toast on top of each. Press down lightly so that a ring of pink will show. Pour the remaining sauce around, sprinkle with minced parsley and serve.

Breakfast Lamb.
A delicious and easily prepared dish is made from left-over lamb, and the last of your lamb roast may very well have its place on the Sunday morning breakfast menu.

Two cups cold, cooked lamb, 1 hard-cooked egg, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 6 baking powder biscuits, salt, pepper.

Combine butter and flour, and add milk to make a cream sauce. Dice cooked lamb and combine it with cream sauce. Add finely minced hard-cooked egg. Serve on baking powder biscuits, split open and buttered.

Bacon With Pineapple.
Of course bacon is so popular as a breakfast dish that it seems no one needs to be reminded of its appetite tempting power. Here is a way of combining the breakfast fruit and bacon.

Twelve slices bacon, 6 slices pineapple, flour, salt.
Place a single layer of bacon in a cool frying pan. Place over a slow flame. Pour off the fat as it forms. In order that the bacon will be dry and crisp. Remove to the center of a hot platter and keep hot.

Season a little flour with salt and pepper. Dip the slices of pineapple in flour, covering both sides. Brown in very hot bacon fat and serve on a platter around the bacon slices.

In the famous breakfast combination of bacon and eggs, the two may make their appearance together as a bacon omelet.

Best four eggs, without separating the yolks and the whites, to a light froth, adding four tablespoons of water, 1-2 teaspoon of salt, pepper and paprika to taste. Cut 6 thin slices of bacon into dice and fry to a golden brown. Remove the bacon from the fat and keep it warm. Then pour off all the fat from the pan except enough to keep the omelet from sticking. Turn in the egg mixture and cook the omelet carefully. Just before folding sprinkle with the crisply cooked bacon. Gold and serve at once on a hot platter.

COTTON 'STRIKE' ENDS IN EAST ARKANSAS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 9.—(P)—The "general strike" among tenant farmers, sharecroppers and day laborers in east Arkansas was ended today by declaration of the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union.

H. L. Mitchell, secretary of the union, declared that the strike had been successful in forcing "higher wages for thousands of day laborers," and in demonstrating "that negro and white workers in the cotton fields have become aware of their common interests, and are willing to get together and fight for them."

Violence Condemned In Labor Disturbance

Manufacturers' Association
Leader Deplores Beating of Union Men at Gadsden.

ANNISTON, Ala., July 9.—Lawlessness and violence allegedly committed by unions in connection with strikes was scored by T. Scott Roberts, of Anniston, president of the Alabama Cotton Manufacturers' association, in a statement issued last week relative to a labor disturbance at Gadsden, Ala.

The statement, made public here yesterday, follows:
"The recent beating of union men at Gadsden is deplorable and I state unreservedly and sincerely that those guilty should be prosecuted and punished. Union organizations and union officials are bitterly protesting these violent acts, are calling for investigations and are appealing to public sentiment to back them in their protests against violence. While they are thus agitating for law and order, I think it very appropriate to remind the public of the flagrant acts of lawlessness and violence, actual or threatened, which have been perpetrated by the unions in connection with every strike in recent years."

"Less than two years ago we had a widespread series of textile strikes. Every textile plant in the city of Anniston was surrounded by a large crowd of strikers who by force prevented anyone from going into the plant. It was very important that goods already manufactured be shipped, but not a pound could be moved because strikers forcibly prevented entrance to the plants, and any man who attempted to get in the plant would have been beaten to insensibility or death. Also I am sure the public has not forgotten the armed

"flying squadrons" in various states who went from plant to plant for the purpose of driving out by violence employees who wanted to work."

Result of Attacks.
"In the case of the Utica Knitting Company at Anniston plant, even after the court had issued an injunction ordering the strikers to stop interfering with entrance to the plant, the strikers defied the court and the injunction was deliberately disobeyed. One result of this is that the Utica Knitting Company (which occupied rented premises under an option to purchase and had been upon the point of buying under the option) refused to exercise its option and refused to renew its lease except for a short period."

"These conditions were by no means peculiar to the city of Anniston. They existed and do exist wherever there are strikes throughout the United States. Today in several cities of the United States workers in plants are besieged by union strikers and dare not, at risk of their lives, leave the plant to even show themselves at windows."

Two Thoughts.
"I wish to direct public attention to two thoughts in connection with this situation:
(1) Union labor would be in far better position to condemn the lawlessness from which they suffered in Gadsden if they did not themselves invariably engage in wholesale, flagrant violation of law and order in every strike."

(2) Communities which do not protect their industries against violence at the hands of strikers are not only going to have trouble getting new industries, but are apt to find it hard to keep some of those they already have."

MRS. ROOSEVELT URGES SOCIAL SECURITY AID

Old Age Pensions, TVA Are Cited by President's Wife.

NEW YORK, July 9.—(P)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt appealed today to nearly 1,000 women teachers from all parts of the country who are beginning summer courses at Columbia University to support and help improve federal "social security agencies."

A perspiring crowd which jammed the auditorium two hours before the speech began and left an overflow of hundreds in the corridors was told by the nation's first lady that "this is not a question of partisan politics—it is a question of social security and the civilization of the United States."

Federal social security measures including old age pensions, aid for the blind and crippled, the securities exchange act, the Home Owners Loan Corporation, the Tennessee Valley Authority and land rehabilitation and reforestation measures were listed by Mrs. Roosevelt as "agencies that contribute to the security of the American home and family."

She admitted imperfections of some of the New Deal measures she discussed, but vigorously defended federal aid against state social welfare work.

Declaring "we must so organize our government and civilization that everyone who wishes to work can work," Mrs. Roosevelt mentioned the "guarantee of bank deposits" as a social security safeguard.

She said the HOL Corporation "has done much to improve the sense of security but it is not a 100 per cent job."

She cited the TVA as bringing rural electrification and running water to communities, mentioning one she visited "where only 5 per cent of country 'outside New York' which the farms had running water."

3 ROOSEVELT BOYS IN CHARGE OF BO.

NORTH HAVEN, Me., July 9.—The presidential yacht Sawanna headed up the Maine coast tonight towards Buck's Harbor, near Machport, skippered solely by three Roosevelt boys, James, Franklin Jr., John.

Captain Elden Cobett came ashore today after the schooner Sawanna arrived from Tennant's Harbor. He boarded a steamer for his 8th Island home, leaving to the president's sons the job of handling the vessel on their leisurely cruise.

With them were their cook, handy man, Joseph Emmer, and V. ter Coleman, of Santa Barbara, C.

Before the craft departed, J. said the party would go to Bu Harbor and return here Saturday await President Roosevelt's arrival at Pulpit Harbor, on the north coast of North Haven.

ROOSEVELT TO DEPART ON VACATION TONIGHT

President Has One of Busiest Days of Season in Getting Ready.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt put in one of his busiest days of the summer today ending up affairs of state for his departure tomorrow night on a vacation trip.

From early morning until late in afternoon, the chief executive was engaged in conferences with a steady procession of visitors.

He was so busy with callers that he curtailed the time usually devoted to the cabinet session and postponed until tomorrow a conference with administration officials on drought relief.

Goes to New York.
Tomorrow night the President will leave for New York where he will spend the night before his departure for the White House.

First caller on the President's list today was Frank Murphy, high commissioner to the Philippines, who submitted his resignation and reported on his trip.

Then the President received Sumner Welles, assistant secretary of state, with the minister of Ecuador, Colonel Eloy Alfaro, and the ambassador from Peru, Manuel Freyre.

Members of the railroad retirement board consulted with the chief executive on problems arising from the United States district court's ruling that the taxes under the new retirement program were invalid.

Lunches With Dorn.
Other morning callers included Roosevelt to report on the Civilian Conservation Corps, which he heads.

Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, to talk with the President.

After lunch with Secretary Dorn, President held a brief conference with Postmaster General Farley before the abbreviated cabinet meeting.

He wound up the day by conference with Chester Davis, of the Federal Reserve Board; Acting Director of the budget, and Colonel Hon. B. Hackett, assistant public works administrator.

PERSONS BEHEADED FOR GERMAN SLAYINGS

Danish, Fiance Arrives in Gotham, Greeted by Bride-To-Be.

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—The United States minister to Denmark went down the bay to meet her fiance today and after greeting him with a kiss sped him off to a Long Island Sound estate where they made plans to be married.

Shipboard acquaintances of Captain Roegge Rohde, blue-eyed, athletic member of the life guard of King Christian X, quoted him as saying he would be married tomorrow to Madeline Minister Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan and the first woman minister ever to represent this country abroad.

Mrs. Owen met her fiance at quarantine in the 40-foot cabin cruiser Now Listen, owned by her son-in-law, Robert Lehman.

Fannie Hurst, the novelist, will act as matron of honor and Mrs. Owen's son-in-law will attend Captain Rohde.

LARSEN REITERATES SUPPORT OF NEW DEAL
CHIPLEY, Ga., July 9.—(AP)—Former Congressman W. W. Larsen, candidate for governor, told a crowd here today that "Before my opponents were supporting the New Deal I was a part of it."

Reiterating his support of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Larsen said he worked with Mr. Roosevelt, then assistant secretary of the navy, when he was a member of congress.

Larsen said his friendship with Mr. Roosevelt began 20 years ago.

J. W. Epps, who introduced the candidate, said:

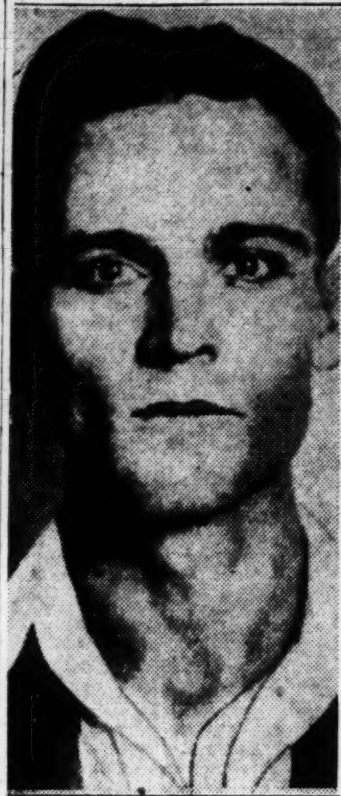

"The state of Georgia is through with one-man rule and tired of warring political groups."

He said Larsen's opponents, Speaker E. D. Rivers, Judge Blanton Fortson and Charles D. Redwine, were "factional candidates."

Larsen said he favored annual sessions of the legislature and the "removal of dictatorial powers from the chief executive."

BEGINS SECOND SWING.
CHICAGO, July 9.—(AP)—John D. Hamilton, republican chairman, said today he would begin his second major swing into the political field, with a visit to Augusta, Maine, on July 14.

Identified by Police

LAWRENCE DE VOL.

DE VOL IS SLAIN BY ENID POLICE

Gunman Identified by Fingerprints as Escaped Criminal.

ENID, Okla., July 9.—(AP)—A quick-firing gunman who was slain by officers after killing one Enid policeman and wounding two others was identified by fingerprints today as Lawrence De Vol, widely wanted Karpis-Barker mobster who led 15 escaping convicts from a Minnesota insane hospital last month.

Patrolman Carl Palmer was killed and his fellow officer, Ralph Knarr, was wounded seriously. Assistant Chief of Police Lelon Coyle and another officer chased the gunman two blocks and shot him down, but not before he had shot off one of Coyle's fingers.

The officers were called to the beer parlor by the proprietor, Jim O'Neal, a former policeman, who feared a holdup.

De Vol was wanted in connection with the slaying of Policeman John Rose at Kirksville, Mo., in 1930, but avoided being returned to Missouri by pleading guilty in January, 1935, and taking a life term for his part in a Minneapolis bank robbery in which three persons were slain.

'SON' OF CONFUCIUS IS BURIED IN IOWA

AMES, Iowa, July 9.—(UP)—The 70th direct lineal descendant of Confucius, famed philosopher of ancient China, is buried on the campus of Iowa State College here.

He was Kung Fan Chi, who was 29 years old when he died here in 1929.

MATE HELD IN CUTTING.
DETROIT, July 9.—(AP)—Detectives who arrested John Drotar today said he had slashed off his wife's nose with a razor and then attempted to end his life by cutting his throat. Both were taken to receiving hospital, where Drotar, 57, a former street car motor-man, was held in the mental observation ward.

DENuded BY ROBBERS, MAN HIDES ALL NIGHT
Another victim of raiment-removing bandits was discovered yesterday morning in a vacant lot near the police station, where he had remained all night, he told police, because of his embarrassing lack of attire.

John M. Evans, 40, of Waycross, the victim, reported two negroes held him up as he was walking down Butler street, forced him into a vacant lot and left him in something of a predicament after robbing him of $7 in cash and stripping him of his outer clothing.

He remained concealed in the weeds all night and finally called to a passer-by early yesterday morning for aid.

MALCOM HANGS MAP TO CHART ACCIDENTS

The why and how and where of Atlanta's traffic crashes will soon become apparent to Captain Jack Malcom, head of the Atlanta police traffic department, by a mere glance at a map.

Captain Malcom installed a map six feet square in his office in the police administration building. Colored tacks will be placed on the map at every point where a motor vehicle crash occurs. Different colors on the tacks will represent different types of accidents.

With this system in effect, the head of the traffic department can take a look at the map and determine the nature of various crashes, the sections and points in the city where most accidents occur, the flow of traffic, violations which result in accidents and traffic hazards which cause crashes.

Child Severely Bitten
By Runaway Monkey

A pet monkey went on a rampage yesterday afternoon on Ponce de Leon avenue, knocking over a four-year-old child in a neighbor's yard and severely bit and clawed the victim, according to reports by police.

Carl Lester, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Lester, was playing in his back yard at 425 Ponce de Leon avenue with several other children when the monkey scaled the fence. In the panic which followed, the Lester child was attacked by the animal, police reported, and was sent to Crawford Long hospital for treatment.

The monkey belonged to L. A. Roche, of 419 Ponce de Leon avenue, according to Radio Patrolman W. O. Nix and J. J. Masters, who investigated Louis Roche, 17-year-old son of the owner of the monkey, helped rescue the victim.

HITLER FAVORABLE

Nazis To Carry Swastika
Banner, Send 2,500 Athletes to Berlin.

PARIS, July 9.—(AP)—Officials said tonight advice received from Berlin indicated Germany and Austria had reached a temporary agreement guaranteeing Austrian independence "for the present."

Diplomatic circles said the "truce" included permission of Austrian Nazis to carry swastika banners in sweeping political amnesty given them.

Under the terms of the accord as reported here Austria will send 2,500 athletes to the Olympic games this summer in Berlin, and both nations will suppress heavy taxes which have been applied to each others' citizens in transit between the two countries.

Germany also agreed, the sources said, to make heavy purchases of wood in Austria while the latter nation will buy German coal.

Another agreement was that three Austrian Nazis be put in the cabinet of Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg.

UNION IGNORES CUSTOM TO BACK ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—The Cap and Millinery Workers International union announced tonight its endorsement of President Roosevelt for re-election.

Departing from its 35-year-old custom of not supporting candidates of either of the major parties, the union reported it will back the Non-Partisan League for the re-election of President Roosevelt, pledging financial and moral assistance in the campaign.

ROOSEVELT ASSURED OF NO MAJOR STRIKE

differences with the federation as being of sufficient importance to place before the President.

"I can only assume," Lewis said, "that the President, like others, expects labor to reconcile its own internal problems."

Lewis told the President, he said, that the campaign to unionize the steel industry which brought the "united front" statement from manufacturers to fight for retention of the open shop, had resulted in an "unparalleled mass movement" of the workers behind the President's candidacy for re-election.

Renews Support Pledge.

The mine boss, who several weeks ago threw the support of the nation's largest single union in to the campaign for Roosevelt's re-election, reiterated his pledge of support today.

"It is well known that I and my organization are behind the President to a man with our influence and the resources pledged to his re-election," he declared. "Our people believe America needs the re-election of Mr. Roosevelt to insure domestic stability and the preservation of the privileges of a free people."

Although Lewis minimized the importance of his differences with Green, an eloquent different view of the rift was given by the executive council of the federation, which is meeting here secretly to pass upon demands that the industrial unionists be disciplined. The group had before it today a demand by John E. Fry, head of the metal workers, that Lewis and his aids be suspended from the federation immediately.

Decision Next Week.

A decision is not expected before Monday or Tuesday. Published reports that suspension of the insurgents was inevitable were met by Green today with a statement that the council still had an "open mind" in the matter.

"The mind of the executive council is open and will continue to be open until the last stone has been turned in an effort to heal the split in labor's ranks," Green emphasized. "The council is alarmed, however, by the situation and by the confusion caused in the ranks of organized labor."

Green issued a statement tonight seeking to clarify what he described as "the misunderstanding prevalent regarding the attitude of American Federation of Labor to craft and industrial unions." The impression that the federation is opposed to the industrial forms of organization in all its activities, he said, is wrong.

The federation, he continued, has applied and will continue to apply both craft union and industrial union forms of organization in all its activities.

Peace Efforts Resumed.

Until the council acts, influential New Dealers will continue working behind the scenes in an attempt to effect a face-saving compromise which would postpone indefinitely or at least until after the November elections a permanent break in the federation's once "united front."

Their efforts thus far, the United Press was informed reliably, have been futile.

The chasm between the clashing forces already is so wide that the industrial unionists flatly refused an invitation from the council to appear and explain their activities. Individual C. I. O. members were to be given special periods during the remainder of the week to appear and defend their defiance of the federation's orders.

Lewis was to be the first witness today. He didn't go near the spacious room in the Federation building where the council sits. Green does not expect Lewis' side to appear either, but said today he would not change earlier arrangements in the event some of the rebels might change their minds and want to appear. Lewis said this would be highly improbable. He has taken the position that his group has nothing to explain or defend.

Lewis contends the industrial unionists have violated no federation bylaws and that the council can find no valid grounds upon which to base any order suspending the rebels from the federation until the November convention of the organization. He has demanded that the council prepare an elaborate bill of particulars in defense of any drastic action it may take.

JUDGE O. J. FRANKLIN.

FRANKLIN TO APPEAL COMMITTEE'S RULING

ative committee delayed setting a preferential primary. There was much talk of the selection of a Talmadge-appointed Georgia delegation to the national convention to oppose Roosevelt's renomination.

Mr. Roosevelt's friends, however, insisted that the committee hold a preferential primary, and the committee set the date for the primary. The President's friends raised the $10,000 fee for him, and neither Talmadge's friends nor his enemies qualified him. Thus the primary was obstructed because Mr. Roosevelt was unopposed.

"Politics" Charge Hurlled.

Franklin yesterday charged Howell's stand to politics, asserting he can defeat Judge Graham and that the result of a contest would mean the elimination of Graham from the picture. He asserted he failed to qualify until late because he did not want any "stalking horses" trotted out to gum up a clear-cut issue.

"When I filed by telegraph I met every condition imposed by the state committee," Franklin said, "and every one of the committee knows that deep in his heart I have always been a champion of democracy, and I intend to make this race."

"Why should the committee take the initiative to prevent this contest? If there is anything irregular about this notification, 'why not let other candidates do the objecting instead of having committee officials take up the cudgel in their behalf?'"

THOMAS MEIGHAN LIES IN STATE ON BROADWAY

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—The body of Thomas Meighan, "miracle man" of the movies, lay in a Broadway funeral chapel tonight and scores of those who followed his exploits on the screen filed by to pay him tribute.

The laughing-eyed Irishman died last night at the age of 57, with his wife, the former Frances Ring, at his bedside in their Long Island home. A year ago Meighan was stricken with pneumonia and he never fully recovered.

His body will remain in state at the funeral chapel (Campbell's) until Saturday morning, when a high mass will be said at St. Patrick's cathedral on Fifth avenue. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery, in Woodside, Long Island.

Flowers from Meighan's host of friends graced his temporary resting place tonight and on the west coast movie stars paid him tribute in death as "a fine man and a grand trouper."

There is no reason to believe it understands what it is saying.

Barnes Presents
Russell to Crowd

WAYCROSS, Ga., July 9.—The continuation of the New Deal is the one vital issue in the Georgia senatorial race, Mack Barnes, of this city, said here today in presenting Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., for the opening speech of his re-election campaign. Mr. Barnes' brief speech followed:

"Mr. Chairman, Distinguished Guests, and Friends:
"In presenting the speaker, I am conscious of a great responsibility. Your presence here demonstrates your belief in constitutional government and not a government of force and expulsion, as exists in our state today. The consequences of the coming election are vital to the future of this state. Because of their gravity, no one of us dares do less than his utmost towards swelling the majority that will testify to the world that the people of Georgia desire that the processes of recovery, initiated and carried on by Franklin Delano Roosevelt, shall not be interrupted."

"In order to carry on, our beloved President must have co-operation in the United States senate rather than obstruction. Our junior senator has co-operated and by so doing he now has opposition from those who have a great deal and want still more."

"The continuation of the New Deal is the issue in this senatorial race. The question before the people of Georgia is clear and cannot be disguised. The gravity of this issue is the measure of our responsibility. We assemble here today, is Georgia to move forward or is it to turn backward? I predict that Georgia will march forward by nominating Dick Russell for a second term, the ninth of September."

"It now gives me a great pleasure to present Hon. Richard B. Russell Jr., my personal friend, and our junior United States senator."

FORMER SENATOR DILL IS GRANTED DIVORCE

SPOKANE, Wash., July 9.—(AP)—Former Senator Clarence C. Dill today won a divorce from the wealthy Rosalie Jones Dill, former suffragist leader, on his charge that she wrote him a "drinking like a fish" and was losing his mind and eyesight.

Superior Judge W. A. Huneke ruled that Dill must pay $10,000 which the former suffragist "general" gave him during their nine years of married life.

Judge Huneke held "incompetent and immaterial" Dill's charges his wife was a "filthy" housekeeper, a slovenly dresser and an outspoken political foe of President Roosevelt.

The judge sustained Dill's allegation that Mrs. Dill called the senator a "crook and a coward" at the 1932 convention, and that it constituted cruelty.

"Naturally, I'm pleased," said Dill, in Tacoma when the decision was handed down.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS SPREADS IN ALABAMA

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 9.—(AP)—The death toll of Alabama's outbreak of infantile paralysis stood at four today and the number of cases increased to 93 as health authorities redoubled efforts to check the spread of the disease.

Those listed as victims were Marjorie Elizabeth Phillips, 15, of Russellville, who died July 3 in a Memphis, Tenn., hospital; Dovie Virginia Prichard, 5, of Union Grove; Peter Baber, 8, of Decatur; and Henry Wallace, of Hartselle.

Virtually all meetings of young people have been cancelled, including the annual state convention of Future Farmers of America set for next week at Auburn.

Madison county reported four new cases today, Colbert county 1, Franklin 1, Lawrence 1, Winston 1, and Jefferson 2.

New-Born Babe Carried To Hospital by Mother

WILLIE BOSTON, 34-year-old negro woman, came to Grady hospital early yesterday morning with a tiny bundle in her arms.

"Here's the baby, doctor," she said. "I just wanted to see if it's all right."

The doctor took a look inside the bundle and saw a new-born baby. Its age could be reckoned in hours, not over two at the most.

"Where did it come from?" the doctor asked without thought of possible ambiguity.

"It was just born," replied Willie.

"Well, where is its mother?" the doctor inquired in the hope of getting down to facts.

"I'm its mother," the negro woman replied. "The baby was born about an hour ago and nobody was with me at the time and I just wanted to know if the baby is all right."

The doctors were bewildered, but after making certain mother and baby were "all right," they investigated the case and found what the woman had said was true.

Yesterday afternoon, Willie was doing her housework while the fourth addition to her family lay on the bed near by and busied itself with getting accustomed to this world.

McPherson Denies Attempt To Oust Rheba Crawford.

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—(AP)—showdown of Angelus Temple's troupe involving its two famous women evangelists, Pastor Althea Temple McPherson and Associate Pastor Rheba Crawford appeared imminent tonight on the eve of a meeting of the board of elders.

Mrs. McPherson stayed in seclusion. Miss Crawford said she planned "sit tight" against what she said were requests from the elders for her resignation.

Jacob Moidel, attorney for McPherson, said "no attempt has even been made to force Mrs. Spilvalo (McPherson's married name), to resign as associate pastor nor has any effort even been made to break her contract."

He added: "Sister McPherson has been threatened with legal action the last time by Mrs. Spilvalo. McPherson can take any legal action she cares to in regard to this or other matter at Angelus Temple."

The crux of the dispute was reported to be a $400,000 slander suit which has been brought by Vivian Denton, former temple press agent, against Mrs. McPherson.

House Clerk Predicts November Will Find 3 Million More at the Polls.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—record popular vote in the November presidential election was predicted today by William Tyler Page, minority clerk of the house, who has been watching the ballot totals for years.

Page said that from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 more ballots would be counted in November than in 1932 when there were 38,816,522.

These would boost the total about 45,000,000 or 45,000,000. Elmer Get-Out-the-Vote Club, as he expected a popular vote of 41,000,000 to 42,000,000. For 12 years, a hobby, he has been campaigning make the American people "rotund."

Page said the number of people eligible to vote this fall would be between 65,000,000 and 70,000,000. Michelet estimated that 7 in 10 people eligible to vote in 1936 would be almost as numerous as those who used the ballot.

His estimate of the number of eligible voters who did not vote was in line with a census tally of more than 73,000,000 persons of "voting age" in 1930.

Tomato juice adds zest to light repasts.

Tomato juice has risen to national popularity as a food, drink and appetizer. Many people enjoy tomato juice as a "pick up" in the morning, although it finds equal favor with many, when served with sandwiches and salads, as it adds just the zest needed to complete a light, tasty repast.

As a cocktail, either plain or with spices and condiments added, it makes an ideal before-dinner drink to sharpen the appetite for the principal meal of the day. In salads, tomato juice makes another happy contribution to healthful foods, combining beautifully with gelatin to enrich the flavor of the dish.

Tomato juice may be added to gravies to lend an appetizing flavor or to meat loaves for a similar reason. It makes a splendid base for croquette sauces. Soups of all kinds may be improved with the addition of tomato juice. In baking, tomato juice may often be used advantageously in place of lemon juice. It improves the flavor of spice cake and many kinds of cookies.

Keep a Bottle on Hand.

It is always wise to have a bottle of tomato juice in the refrigerator, to serve as a beverage when unexpected guests arrive, for an afternoon of bridge, or in the evening when informal gatherings require refreshments.

Tomato juice, used in connection with the baby's food, under the direction of your doctor, is one of the finest adjuncts to baby's diet. A bottle of tomato juice contains vitamins A, B and C, needed by children for growth and health. For older children in school, tomato juice brings vitamin I, which helps build resistance to infection, and because of the proportions of natural sugars and acids, makes a refreshing drink one does not tire of.

If you are accustomed to serving tomato juice with canapés when you entertain, you will wish to jot down some of the following combinations which make delicious spreads:

Liverwurst mashed to a paste, seasoned with chili sauce.

Cream cheese mixed with minced onion.

Chicken or tuna fish blended with mayonnaise.

Roquefort cheese softened with cream.

Chopped olives blended with mayonnaise.

Cream cheese blended with horseradish and crisp chopped bacon.

Deviled ham or deviled tongue.

Chopped eggs seasoned with mustard and chili sauce.

Liver and bacon ground and seasoned.

Sardine paste seasoned with lemon or onion.

Peanut butter with lemon juice.

Peanut butter with chopped pickle.

Chicken livers, cooked, mashed and seasoned.

Baked beans, mashed and seasoned with horseradish.

Peanut butter, chopped bacon and lemon juice.

Suggested Garnishments.

Following is a list of suggested garnishments for your canapés:

Finely chopped hard-cooked egg white.

Circles, stars or strips cut from pickles, cucumbers, or onions.

Finely chopped chives, onions, or parsley in border, strips, or other decorative arrangement.

Thinly sliced onions.

Slices of lemon, tomato, radish or pickle.

Halves of salted almonds or pecans.

Maraschino cherry circle.

A new height of savoredness may be obtained when serving tomato juice by preparing any one of the seasoned appetizers listed below.

Tomato and Orange Cocktail.

Three cups tomato juice, 1-2 cup orange juice, 1-2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon sugar, 2 teaspoons chopped onions, a little salt, pepper and paprika.

Combine the ingredients; mix thoroughly and let stand in refrigerator for at least one hour. Then strain through colander and pour over crushed ice in cocktail glasses.

Loveapple Cocktail.

One and one-half cups tomato juice, 1-2 cup evaporated milk, 1-2 cup chopped ice, 1-4 teaspoon celery salt, 1-4

CUTCLIFFE RELEASED AFTER SERVING TERM

Alleged Lottery Operator Receives Suspended Sentence on Second Charge.

Walter Cutcliffe, wealthy alleged racket operator, was a free man yesterday. He was released from the river prison camp after serving 10 months of a 12-month sentence for violation of the lottery law.

Cutcliffe paid a fine of $150 on a speeding charge and Judge Jesse A. Wood, of Fulton criminal court, suspended another 12-month lottery sentence.

Judge Wood told Cutcliffe he was not to engage in the lottery racket any more or else he will be sent back to the chain gang to serve the suspended sentence.

Cutcliffe was convicted of the first lottery violation, for which he served time, in 1934 following a raid by police on his residence on Club drive. He was arrested after being found in possession of a trunkful of lottery tickets and the straight sentence followed.

While Cutcliffe was appealing that sentence to the court of appeals, he was arrested again by court police and charged with speeding and lottery violation. He was convicted on both counts. After the court of appeals upheld the criminal court sentence, Cutcliffe went to prison. He appealed the second lottery sentence but withdrew it before his release yesterday. Judge Wood suspended it.

Cutcliffe was allowed two months off his 12-month sentence for good behavior.

officer shot at him, the bullet passing through both legs of the negro. Disorderly conduct charges against Robinson also were dismissed when Recorder John L. Conner was unable to find anyone among the witnesses who saw Robinson in possession of liquor, although several witnesses testified the negro had tried to sell them liquor shortly before the shooting.

Robinson, brought into court on a stretcher, declared he was trying to sell a ring at the time and did not attempt to sell any liquor.

CONSTIPATION* MAY BE MORE SERIOUS THAN YOU THINK

It Causes Discomfort, May Even Lead to Disease

Constipation* is not a condition to be treated lightly. Continued neglect of regular habits of elimination tend to lower your resistance. Then there is the actual discomfort. For constipation* is one cause of headaches, poor appetite, listlessness.

Common constipation usually develops when you eat meals that lack sufficient "bulk." Your system fails to get needed internal exercise. Fortunately, today, you have a generous source of effective "bulk" in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Within the body, the "bulk" in ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass, which gently cleanses the system. This natural laxative food also supplies vitamin B and contains iron.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into muffins, breads, etc. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Stubborn cases may require ALL-BRAN oftener. If not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed by the Kellogg Company as an effective laxative food for constipation.* Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SENATOR RUSSELL'S ADDRESS.

We publish in full the announcement of Senator R. B. Russell, delivered at Waycross yesterday, in his campaign for re-election. The address is well worth reading. It is a complete and clean-cut presentation of the main issue involved in the national campaign—whether or not the principles and policies under which the nation has emerged from the worst depression in its history shall be continued.

The address is a convincing argument that the people of the country should decide once for all whether or not they are to turn the government again into the hands of Wall Street control, and whether or not wealth must bear its fair part of the burden of taxation, based upon income.

Senator Russell assails the attitude of his opponent, Governor Talmadge, in favoring the abolition of the income tax, which is the fairest tax ever devised in that it is based upon income. If a man makes little, he pays little, and if he makes much, he pays accordingly. This system of taxation Governor Talmadge says he will endeavor to abolish if elected to the senate.

One cannot read the address of Senator Russell without being impressed with his sincerity and with the strength of his argument.

For many years thousands, if not millions, of innocent investors the country over, have been pillaged by high-powered financial interests centered in Wall Street. Their manipulations is to be largely attributed the plight of the railroads, which they financed and refinanced, each time taking tremendous toll in commissions.

The looting of the railroads is well illustrated by the case of one of the lines operating in Georgia. This railroad, passing into the hands of a corporation in another state, has had its securities increased by $30,000,000 during the past 20 years, without laying a new mile of track or increasing a single facility.

Much of this vast sum was levied by financial interests of New York by way of commissions and "costs." The same is true in every state in the Union, not only of the railroads, but of other industries.

Now that the government has stepped in, advancing new working capital to looted corporations through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and safeguarding investment securities through the restrictions exercised by the Securities Exchange Commission, the hungry wolves of Wall Street are yawning and waiting in the effort to make it appear that the government is doing a dreadful thing to stand between them and the public.

We commend Senator Russell's address to the public. It is worth reading, and it is difficult to understand how anyone, after studying it, can doubt that he should be returned to the senate.

WILLIAM PATRICK ANDERSON.

The death of W. P. Anderson, known to his many friends as "Pat" Anderson, takes from Atlanta and Georgia an esteemed citizen and a trusted leader. Active for many years in the civic life of Atlanta and Fulton county, Mr. Anderson proved himself worthy of the high honors which the electorate conferred upon him. In both the municipal and county offices which he filled with such distinction and satisfaction he was sought out by the people rather than himself seeking the office. He served as member of city council from the seventh ward for a number of years, during which period he was president of the city park board. For the past several years he had been a useful member of the Board of Education of Fulton county.

For 14 years Mr. Anderson served as superintendent of the Georgia Baptist Orphan's Home, located at Hapeville, the largest institution of the sort in the state of Georgia. The enrollment of the home during Mr. Anderson's superintendency averaged 300 boys and girls. He resigned his connection with one of the oldest wholesale grocery concerns in the city to accept the direction of the orphanage and his ability as a businessman and his spirit of unselfish service to needy childhood commended him to the large constituency represented in the Baptists of the state. His leadership at the home was outstanding among such institutions throughout the south.

The people of Atlanta and all Georgia will be grieved to learn of the passing of this widely useful man. He leaves an example of disinterested service to humanity which will prove an inspiration to all who knew him. Having made a success as a businessman, Mr. Anderson chose deliberately to invest his money, his time and his talents in trying to help his fellow man, particularly the youth of his day and generation, and he lived and died in the abiding satisfaction of knowing that he had made enduring investments.

WE SUFFER LESS

The devastating and destructive heat wave from which the midwest and northwest are now suffering serves to emphasize the fact that, although the southeast has had its own misfortunes from heat and unfavorable crop conditions, we are far better off than those of these sections west of the Mississippi and south of the western Canadian border.

When such a visitation as that from which the western farmers are now suffering comes to these sections with comparatively short growing seasons, it means the loss of their entire year's work to the tillers of the soil, accompanied by huge losses incurred in the death of farm stock of all kinds.

In the south, the farmers can still plant corn and other crops and secure a harvest before the frosts of the fall begin to settle. Even replanting will not be necessary on most farms because corn only a few inches high when it should be as many feet tall under normal weather conditions will be only a few weeks late if average rains fall during July and August.

Such a thing as the death of cattle, sheep, goats and other farm animals is unknown in the southeast, where the multitudinous streams winding their way from the mountains to the Atlantic and the Gulf of Mexico furnish a never failing supply of water.

It has been an unusually hot and dry spring and early summer in the south, but the heat has not been so severe as to affect the health of either man or beast, and while the cotton crop will be shortened the other cash crops and the food and feed crops have not been damaged enough to threaten a shortage of food either in the farm house or the barn.

We have not suffered from any such extremes of temperature under which the midwest and northwest are now sweltering. Those who complain when the thermometer rises into the upper nineties should find comfort in the fact that they do not have to exist under the 119 degrees registered in Dakota, or the heat in Illinois which is so blistering as to cause paved highways to "blow up."

So, after all, the south has another demonstration of the fact that, year in and year out, it has the better and most moderate climate of the country, where the extremes of heat or cold seldom come to cause human suffering or tremendous losses to the farmers.

SHIPP RELINQUISHES THE PEN.

The retirement of Nelson M. Shipp as a member of the editorial staff of the Columbus Ledger and Enquirer-Sun will be received with regret not only by the people of that community but throughout the state. For years his trenchant pen has contributed materially to the high caliber of the editorial pages of these two leading Georgia dailies.

It is fortunate that in retiring from the newspaper field he has practically the choice of two positions, in either of which he will continue in close touch with the public.

Because of his long experience and close study of welfare work, Mr. Shipp has been offered a position on the staff of the National Security Board, but this offer came to him after he had announced his candidacy for clerk of the superior court of Muscogee county. That he will be nominated there seems to be no doubt. Certainly no more worthy choice could be made by the voters of the county.

Thus in laying down the pen he has the choice of two positions, in either of which his unusual ability will still be exercised in the interest of the public.

Whichever the choice may be, his record is such as to guarantee that he will discharge in an outstanding manner the responsibilities assumed.

A loudspeaker was installed at a western wedding. That rumble and distant thunder was the groom, swallowing his Adam's apple.

World's Window

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.
In the New Empire.

Italian chests have expanded a couple of inches since I was here last time. Pride has taken the place of pessimism. There is a new Roman emotion in the world today. Even the bare-footed shoe-shine boys and the bottle-nosed cab drivers of old Napoli will tell you about it, if not always in many words, but at least by assuming a bit haughty attitude when they spot a foreigner.

"Dear me," said a silver-haired Anglican clergyman, who was being snubbed in line with me to register with the alien police, "dear me, I wonder if Mr. Baldwin half realizes how much damage he has done to the prestige of England." He shook his head sadly.

"I shouldn't worry too much," I told the worried man. "The British Empire is still the British Empire, don't you know?"

"Do you really think so?" He questioned with anxiety. "It seems to me that I have no respect for us now. The world seems to think that we have not acted forthrightly."

We had a spot of beer together, the clergyman and I (not that I like beer, but the divine was treating me). The Englishman said to us: "England? Ha, snap my fingers at the English. They thought they could play with our Duce. He misjudged just showed his teeth once and the English got their feet out of our way in a hurry."

"Dear me," said the cleric, who did not finish his glass, "dear me, how positively nasty that man spoke about us. They lack in grace, these Italians, do you really think they mean to be angry with us?"

"Not angry," I said, "they figure they have England's number." "What do you mean by that expression about England?" I asked the cleric of the main gaze of Naples.

"What's next?" I asked the chief scribbler, "after you get sanctions lifted?"

"First," he replied, "we are going to demand that the League withdraw the condemnation of Italy as the aggressor. After that we shall let Ethiopia advance us the money to exploit Ethiopia."

"I think you will be successful in that?"

"I am certain," he replied. "We are even now being swamped with offers of capital in London. There will be no difficulty on that score, I can assure you."

"Then where will there be any difficulty?" I asked.

"Nowhere," he came back. "There are no more difficulties. We have shown what we can do. We have humbled England, something that nobody ever did in two hundred years. Italy has arrived. We can have what we want. Nobody can stop Mussolini. The whole world can stop him. He has just defeated 50 nations. All people will be begging for Italy's favor."

"England, too?" I asked for my clergyman friend's benefit.

"England first," he came the prompt answer. "What backed down first? Who proposed to lift sanctions? The English are growing afraid of the Duce's new navy. They need Mussolini's help."

"Will the Duce help?"

"Not on your life. Never, never, you hear me, you see Italy fighting Germany. The English are decent with us in the sanctions squabble. We will not forget."

That was one man speaking. But the world challenges him to defend his runs through all the newspapers. Consequently, everybody speaks that way. It goes without saying that the Duce's personal prestige has risen 100 per cent. "Italy's march on Rome," he said three years ago. She has not exploded, although she came within a hair's breadth of disaster last December. Mussolini kept a stiff upper lip and bluffed his way through. The whole Ethiopian adventure is reminiscent of the attempt by the Allies to force the Dardanelles in the first world war. The British and French fleets made one effort, lost half a dozen battleships and then withdrew. It was not discovered till six weeks later that the Turks had not one shell left and the order to evacuate the forts had been given in the event the Allied fleet put in a second appearance. For six weeks the Allies waited the taking. Then Mackensen broke through the Rumanian line and the shells and munitions poured in from Germany.

The sanctions against Italy, as I see it now, were wrong, because they were directed against the Italian people, whereas they should have been directed to strike the Italian government, namely by depriving it of war material through an embargo on oil, steel, coal, etc. Depriving the Italian people of the help of Mussolini is no monster, for it aroused resentment, solidified national consciousness and made even those who were not in favor of fascism.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS FAIR ENOUGH

BY PAUL MALLON.
BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

PROMOTION. WASHINGTON, July 9.—The notion of "the co-operative commonwealth" with which the brain-trusters lately have been toying in their parlors of thought may be found in concrete form hidden under a ton of constitutional ideas in Agriculture Secretary Wallace's new book, "Whose Constitution?"

The book, inadvertently, explains more definitely than anything else why President Roosevelt has dispatched a co-operative study mission to Europe and why one indefinite sentence about consumer price protection was put into the democratic platform.

What Mr. Wallace expresses in thoughts of six syllables each, 327 pages long, is a hope that the brain-trusters of 1936 will stir up the country through their careful writings. He says flatly he is trying to institute a promotional movement to start everybody thinking that capitalism, fascism, communism and even state socialism are all wrong and what we need is the co-operative commonwealth.

His book is his own first stab at the subject, was fully taken. Mr. Upton Sinclair, the chastened socialist, announced a new novel entitled "Co-op," in which Mr. Roosevelt is a leading character, apparently after that will come the deluge.

PESSIMISM. What Mr. Wallace suspects, but does not say, is that another depression is in the offing. He virtually concedes the New Deal is not working out. ("It has made a good beginning.") Something more is needed, however, to prevent recurring depressions "every 10 years," and to provide the ideal state.

Mr. Wallace has no doubt that his co-operative commonwealth is what is coming, but he does not know exactly when or how. He foresees the possibility that the "privileged" may get scared and let it come through constitutional amendments. Then again: "In various countries of the world in the past, the privileged classes have often acted in such a way as to make gradual change impossible and have precipitated violent action." Obviously what he wants to do is to make it so popular the people will cry for it. But he does not seem to be very enthused about that possibility.

In fact, all he is sure of just yet is the idea, but he is sure of that with the finality that even a supreme court justice does not enjoy.

NOTE.—All he knows just yet about the time of its arrival is that "no one can say just when circumstances in our day will be such that the co-operative idea can be cloaked in appropriate social mechanism." Meanwhile, nothing is more important than that more and more people become actively imbued with the idea of a co-operative society.

CLOUDS. Mr. Wallace is likewise more than a little vague about the substance of this new panacea in the brain-truster's knapsack. Apparently he believes it will not be difficult to get agriculture on a wholly co-operative basis, but he admits he is going to have trouble with industry. "Unquestionably some means must be found by which these industries may operate more and more according to the needs of society and less on the basis of control by a few individuals for purposes of profit to the relatively few." This is the only clue he gives.

Anyone who has talked with Mr. Wallace's associate-believers in co-operation here knows they have far more definite ideas than this. In fact, most of them frankly will tell you they hope to have a state socialism with state-owned or controlled factories, retailing, wholesaling and what-not. However, that objective is unattainable, if not undesirable. What they seem to want to do now is to go as far as they can toward that end. That is, they would follow for the present the Swedish approach of state-owned monopolies in only a few of the largest or most easily attainable industries.

However, this is rather dangerous stuff, especially in a campaign year, so, for the present the idea will continue to be vague in its published form.

CURE-ALL. What makes all this necessary, Wallace says, is that people have lost their religion. They believed in work as long as they believed in God. They accepted the simple homely ideas of home and family, hard work and thrift to provide a better education and position for their children—not because they thought that was natural and wise, says Mr. Wallace—but because some church told them to.

But now: "The people have largely discarded a belief in the supernatural and a future life, from which source they originally obtained much of their driving power."

Mr. Wallace does not think his co-operative solution is apt to be a slightly deficient substitute for religion. Nor does he consider the possibility that government officials might do a lot more good by calling attention to consoling religious principles. Likewise, he fails to mention the enjoyment he personally gets out of his own work, or how lost he would be if he lost it.

SILHOUETTES

But when it arrived
'Twas fit for a linnet—
And should have been labeled

Georgia

Always Ahead.

Did you see that story about the airplane and the filling station, dated "Lafayette, Ga.," that said: "This old state is always in the forefront of progress." Seems the filling station was beside a straight stretch of smooth, paved highway. The attendant was astonished to see the plane make a clean, three-point landing on the highway, taxi up to the gasoline pumps.

"Fill 'er up," said the pilot, nonchalantly, even as motoring you to automobile L.

Seems the filling attendant filled the plane's tank and accepted the pilot's cash. But before he recovered sufficient to ask his customer's name, the plane had roared on down the road and taken off, into the air again.

Starting.

Today, But—

Such an experience may startle a gas station attendant today, but it will be common enough in a few years. It's nice to find that Georgia is one of the first states to record such a happening.

And I'll bet it will be in this state that one of the first interplanetary flyers swoops down after a trip to Mars, or somewhere, and the captain, casually, "Say, is this the right road to Uranus?"

Opera in English.

Trying It Again.

I am advised a company has been organized in London for the production of the standard grand operas, but sung in English. It is to be a company of casts, both for acting as well as vocal ability, by lengthy rehearsals of the entire company, together, and by stressing the dramatic as well as the musical values of the productions. It will be possible to introduce something new and worthwhile on the operatic stage to the English-speaking people.

There have been several attempts to sing operas in English. One of the standard works, usually sung in Italian, I think, was presented in English during a season of the Metropolitan Opera Company here, some score or more years ago. It was rather a dismal failure. In the first place you couldn't understand the words; anyway, more than if they had been sung in Sanscrit, and secondly the English sound values did not fit themselves to the music.

Despite the beauty of the English language as a medium for the written word, it is not, as spoken, a musical tongue. Italian, French or Spanish have much more inherent music in their vowel arrangements, and provide better vehicles for the singer.

And who cares about the actual words? The simple operatic plots by heart and it doesn't require much pantomimic ability on the part of the singers for the audience to follow the story with sufficient understanding for full appreciation.

There are situations and lines in most operas, anyway, which, if put into unmetrical English, would create the danger of the self-appointed censors of our morals interfering with the performances.

Another New Word.

Have you met the word "balletomania"? It is a new word, but to be found in any dictionary, in so far as I know, but it has been creeping into the language of the theater, anyway.

Persons whom a balletomania is an enthusiasm for a ballet. A real, dyed-in-the wool ballet fan, in fact.

Wedding Bells

Follow Bonus Checks.

Reports from various centers of population tell of a rush of business at the offices of the marriage license clerks since payment of the war bonus.

"Wonder what the Fulton county figures reveal, locally."

Here's another case of similar aroma.

Columbus, Texas, one Oscar Crawford, 66 received his first old age pension check from that state. It amounted to $13. Within a few hours he appeared at the courthouse with a 16-year-old girl, stating he wanted to be married. For the first time in his life, too.

The girl's father is said to have ended the wedding proceeding, the county judge officiating.

The bride and groom are spending the honeymoon on an 18-acre farm belonging to the groom.

Twenty-five

Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Monday, July 10, 1911.

The Constitution's Thomas Flyer made a record trip yesterday. The journey was made from Albany, approximately 210 miles from Atlanta, in a running time of eight hours and twenty minutes.

And Fifty

Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Saturday, July 10, 1886:

Yesterday Governor McDaniel issued a commission to Henry R. Peoples, judge of the county court of Lowndes county. He had held the office for one term, and was recently re-elected.

Birth of Farragut.

David Glasgow Farragut was born at Campbell's Station, near Knoxville, Tenn., in 1801. He was only 12 years old when he commanded a vessel for the United States navy. A midshipman aboard the U. S. S. Essex in 1812, he was placed aboard a British ship captured in the Pacific as prize master. When he gave his first order, the captain flew into a violent rage, declared he "had no idea of trusting himself to a damned nut-shell," and went below for his pistols. Hereupon Farragut assumed complete command of the ship, and notified the captain that if he came on deck he would be thrown overboard, and was thenceforth master of the ship, which he took into Valparaiso.

Simon Bolivar.

Simon Bolivar, 28, in 1811, started the war of independence in Venezuela, first of the Spanish colonies in America to throw off the yoke. Later Bolivar was to win the freedom of Colombia, Ecuador and Peru, and inspired Argentina and other countries to revolt. Upper Peru became a separate nation and was named Bolivia in honor of Bolivar. He was a great liberator, he won, drove him out, and he died unwanted by any of the other countries he had made free.

Clive's Destiny.

Fourteen years after Robert Clive, impoverished clerk in despair, sought to commit suicide, he and his 3,200 followers in 1757, whipped Surajud Dowla's 50,000 in the Battle of Plassey and became masters of India.

The pistol Clive turned against his head snapped twice, and he flung it into the air, exclaiming, "It appears I am destined for something; I will live!"

He was destined to make India a British empire.

The Prince Doesn't Remind People That He Is the Peasant's Superior

BY ROBERT QUILLLEN.

When Willie is an insufferable little egotist somewhere in the neighborhood of seven, he is inspired to high endeavor by the presence of visiting grandmothers, aunts and cousins. Forgotten for the moment he climbs "to the top of the house or the topmost limb of a tree or shouts: 'Look at me, 'way up here.' Or he appears in the foreground, doing some such stunt as standing on his hands, and yells at the top of his voice: 'See what I'm doing!'

What troubles the darling? As he did when he howled in his cradle he craves attention. He feels important and he wishes others to observe what a wonder he is.

Ridicule and reproach modify this trait as he grows older, and teaches him to be discreet and subtle, but he still endeavors to call attention to his excellence. Only in the case of saying, "See what a wonder I am!" he calls attention to his superiority by sneering: "How awful those other people are!"

With his wife or children or intimate friends, where he feels safe from criticism, he makes critical comment on his imperfect neighbors. "Look at that awful tie he has on," says he. Or, "Listen to that awful grammar." Or, "Look at him showing off with his fine manner." Or, "Look at the wicked fellow drinking beer." Or, "Look at him trying to attract attention."

What troubles the fellow? Why does he urge people to look faults? Because, by pointing out the faults of others, he calls attention to the fact that he has no such fault. He is feeding his vanity. Because he isn't sure of his excellence, he looks for comparisons and contrasts to prove it.

Blessed is the man who knows he is pretty good and doesn't need the need of proving it. He doesn't run down his neighbors to draw attention to his own virtue.

Hollywood Today

By SHELLAH GRAHAM.

HOLLYWOOD, June 9.—Herbert Marshall has been rebelling against accepted standards all his life. He rebelled when he was a clerk to a firm of chartered accountants in London. He rebelled against the salary he was making in the great war that threatened to finish his budding theatrical career. . . . Ever since his arrival in Hollywood on the heels of his performance in "The Letter" of the New York stage, he has rebelled against the "heavy" sugar roles forced on him. . . . As a climax to this rebellion, Marshall has been awarded the leading masculine role in "Portrait of a Rebel," opposite the fiery Katharine Hepburn.

Has no preference in leading ladies. "Show me a good actress—that's all I care about. . . . I've dated with Marlene Dietrich, Jeanette MacDonald, Jean Arthur, Kay Francis, Ann Harcourt, Merle Oberon, Ruth Chatterton, Gertrude Michael. . . . Rates Miss Michael the finest actress in the bunch."

Hopes and prays the script of the Hepburn production, revised according to his instructions, will take him forever out of the "heavy" class. "If you could only Cook" (in which Marshall plays a butler and his wife a pseudo butler and his wife a pseudo butler) and his wife cheered me no end. They all wrote, "Thank goodness, you played—for once—a lighter part. Life is a pretty serious business. Why not make them laugh?"

Is one of the most generous actors in the film business. "Where did I get my idea of being a 'good fellow'?" he asked. "I saw a picture of a man who was tossing their little trinkets into the melting pot she lay back on a divan reclining on her fingers and toes. I saw a picture of a man who was tossing their little trinkets into the melting pot she lay back on a divan reclining on her fingers and toes. I saw a picture of a man who was tossing their little trinkets into the melting pot she lay back on a divan reclining on her fingers and toes."

Never Accepted Lloyd George is by far the best of these back-lash actors. He is a great historical figure and a national hero. His opinion of generals is that of a man who was always being told by the army that he was a blunderer, make alibis for them and grant decorations on their tunics to gratify their own vanity and deceive the nation into a belief that the war was good. He knew so much about medals and orders that he never accepted so much as a lapel button for himself.

Is no telling what the war means to him. He thinks the present cabinet is composed of rats or not. During the war the old man sent armies out to capture the German colonies, but a few months ago he rose up in common and gave the government the devil for not turning them back to Hitler. Also during the war he kicked the entire House of Commons out of England. He detested Hitler in those days, but in Simpson's restaurant one night last winter he met a Hitler correspondent and he shook hands. "Well, I see we are both writing for the same boss."

Hears found out his price and hired the premier of England.

Opposed Eagle.

Congress adopted the great seal of the United States from a design by William Barton, of Philadelphia, in 1782.

Benjamin Franklin, father of illegitimate children, fought the acceptance of the seal with its eagle design because of the bad moral character of the bird. He first wanted the design to show Moses drowning Pharaoh in the Red sea, and then favored using the turkey. The eagle was suggested by Charles Thompson, a native of Ireland who was representing Pennsylvania in congress.

RUSSELL, OWEN MOVE FOR QUICK DROUTH AID

Senator Wires Roosevelt on Urgency of Conditions;
Owen Leaves for Capital.

With Representative Emmett Owen leaving from Atlanta last night to confer with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace on Georgia's drouth damage, Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., at the same time sent a telegram to President Roosevelt, declaring conditions in this state worse than he described them in his last conference with the President and asking immediate action on the part of the country's chief executive.

Senator Russell also sent similar telegrams to Dr. R. G. Tugwell, administrator of the resettlement administration and to Secretary Wallace.

With the drouth damage in Georgia standing at tens of millions and crops throughout the state irreparably ruined, immediate action is declared necessary by state leaders. Unless funds are forthcoming from the federal government, hundreds of thousands will be wiped out and thousands of others reduced to want, observers warn.

Senator Russell said in his telegram to President Roosevelt: "I find the drouth conditions in the sections of Georgia are far worse than I stated in my last conference with you several weeks ago. It is imperative that immediate steps be taken to relieve the situation. I know that such steps have been made and from your statements to me I am confident that relief is assured. I wish to impress upon you the necessity of immediate action. Please advise me at once when we may expect assistance."

Italians Get Their Meat On Tuesdays Once More

ROME, July 9.—(P)—Italians can begin to eat and play once more without war-time restrictions, effective July 16.

The government sent out orders tonight advising provincial prefects that butchers, poultry dressers and restaurant keepers do not have to observe the rigid meatless Tuesdays.

Night club life also will bloom again. Orders rescinding the wartime abolition will allow bars, restaurants and theaters to remain open longer.

During the Italo-Ethiopian war and sanctions siege the majority of them were forced to close at 11:30 p. m.

Many Apply for Techwood Homes As Federal Rental Offices Open

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

Merritts avenue, the main street of Techwood homes, awakened from its lethargy of the last few months yesterday and became the center of bustling activity.

In and out of the rental offices of the government's new $2,875,000 model low-rent apartment city streamed more than 100 Atlantians—men, women, children and infants in arms—the early birds in search of dwellings where the rent will adjust itself to the meager limits of the pocketbooks.

Up and down the street wandered more than a score of Atlantians, members of the Techwood advisory committee on housing and their wives, city and federal officials and their guests, all under the guidance of J. R. Basinger and Walton Onslow, management supervisors of the housing project, who exhibited the charms and advantages of the apartments the United States government has built and answered all questions in detail.

Complete Inspection.
The tour of inspection of the committee and the city and federal officials lasted more than two hours and no corner of the project was overlooked.

The electric ice boxes were opened amid murmurs of approval; the ovens of the electric stoves were examined; laundries were inspected, the auditoriums, the nurseries, the playgrounds, the stores were subjected to close scrutiny.

While these guests were touring the project, a staff of a dozen clerks sat in the management rental office interviewing the applicants who have read of Techwood in the newspapers and hurried down to add their names to the list of more than 2,000 applicants for apartments.

May Lower Rentals.
And, while all this was going on in the project itself, word came from Washington that Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes believes that a revision downward in rental charges may be necessary.

"I don't dispute that the rentals seem high," said Ickes of the scale that ranges from $21.83 for the cheapest three-room to $31.39 for the cheapest five-room units.

Committee Report.
The touring advisory committee and their guests included Dr. and Mrs. Marion L. Brittain, Miss Ada Barker, Miss Lillian L. Stevens, Miss G. Longden, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Fleet, Mrs. R. L. McDougall, John Cooper, Fire Chief O. J. Parker, Sid Tillet, Herbert Porter, John Cooper and others.

D. A. Calhoun, district supervisor of the project, was in charge of the party.

First tenants will move in during August. Onslow said. Today, the group of 150 persons who registered their requests for apartments several months ago, will be interviewed and group by group all the 2,000 applicants will be interviewed.

INDIANAN SLAYS 8, TAKES OWN LIFE

Hacks Wife, Six Children With Axe, Shoots Friend and Self.

INDIANA HARBOR, Ind., July 9.—(P)—Clement P. Gonzalez, 36, apparently maddened by jealousy and ill health, police said, hacked his wife and six children to death with an axe today and then shot and killed Jose Aro, a roomer in his home, and himself.

Gonzalez killed Aro in the locker room of the Inland Steel Company, where both were employed, as work shifts were changing and in the presence of several other employees. No words were exchanged as Gonzalez walked up to Aro, fired four shots in his body, and then turned the gun on himself. Both died instantly.

Police had some trouble identifying the two men and then learning their addresses.

Finally they went to the Gonzalez home but found the doors locked and left.

Late this afternoon they returned to the home found it still locked, and battered in a door.

SOUTH IS WEALTHY

Alabama Editor Tells Institute Virtues of Dixie.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 10.—(P)—John Temple Graves II, Herald, pictured the south tonight as offering the greatest new market in the country on condition American industry give "hostages" for its development.

"With a third of the people, a third of the territory and a third of the natural resources, the south today has about one-seventh of the wealth of this nation," he told the University of Virginia Institute on Public Affairs in an address on "Industrialism and the South."

"American industry has no other market that offers quite so much, and the magnitude of the offer results from the sorrowful circumstances that comparatively little is given, that the southern people need so many things that they have not got and cannot buy," the Alabama editor said.

OFFSHORE OUTFIT

Meet The Big Fish In Style

Big game fishing is the goal of every angling enthusiast, with the possible exception of the dyed-in-the-wool fly caster. Although no hard and fast rules exist sartorially, we've suggested here a few practical and comfortable essentials for those who fish, whether offshore in deep sea waters for the broadbill, marlin or tarpon, or in river or lake for less kindly denizens of the deep. The gentleman enthroned in the fishing chair is set, in the most authentic manner, to go to work on half a ton of tuna. He's not dreaming about the other articles shown. We just put them there to show some alternate and essential equipment. The engineer's cap is not the result of a lapse of memory. It's Ernest Hemingway's favorite Gulf-Stream top-piece.

Deep sea fishermen have borrowed the West Indian jipiji jappa (the j's pronounced as y's) as they find it affords excellent protection against the tropical Gulf Stream sun.

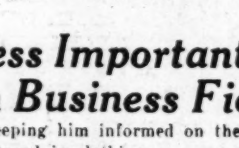

The domestic interpretation of the African topee is another tropical headpiece that sportsmen have taken for their own.

Rain never daunts the deep-sea fisherman. Just put this lightweight weatherproof jacket and trousers over your outfit for complete protection.

Ordinary processed so that it is water-repellent, makes smart-looking slacks for the fisherman. There are a number of excellent light colors from which to choose, but one of the tan shades is recommended.

A navy blue knitted polo shirt, either of wool or silk, will look well with this outfit.

Rubber-soled sneakers are a requirement on-board all boats, and fishing boots are no exception. We show the navy blue canvas shoe with a white sole, favored by tennis players, but just as practical for fishermen. You'll find a heavy wool shirt sock is comfortable when worn with sneakers.

Bank President Here Says Care in Dress Important In Winning One's Way To Success in Business Field

Clothes may not make the man, but the attention of your prospective customers from the goods you want them to buy, by being either slovenly or too fastidiously dressed. The extremes should be avoided, in either direction.

"I should say," this prominent Atlanta executive said yesterday, "that a happy medium effect is the thing for the young man to seek, to aid him to success in business."

"He must dress neatly and unobtrusively, and, after seeing that his appearance is always neat and clean, should be careful to avoid anything suggesting a foppish effect."

This executive, notable for his own always correct appearance, declared that correct, unobtrusive dress is particularly important to the man whose business requires selling.

"It is important," he said, "when your job is to sell goods, not to distract customers from the goods you want them to buy, by being either slovenly or too fastidiously dressed. The extremes should be avoided, in either direction."

The importance of care in keeping clothes neat and clean was stressed by this man.

"I have always made a practice," he said, "of hanging my coat on a hanger or chair back every night and folding my trousers in the crease. I have them pressed and cleaned regularly."

"I really believe that a man who does this, with care to bathe, shave properly, every day, to keep shoes clean and polished and to see that the hair is trimmed regularly and the fingernails kept clean will find how important neatness is as a part of proper dress."

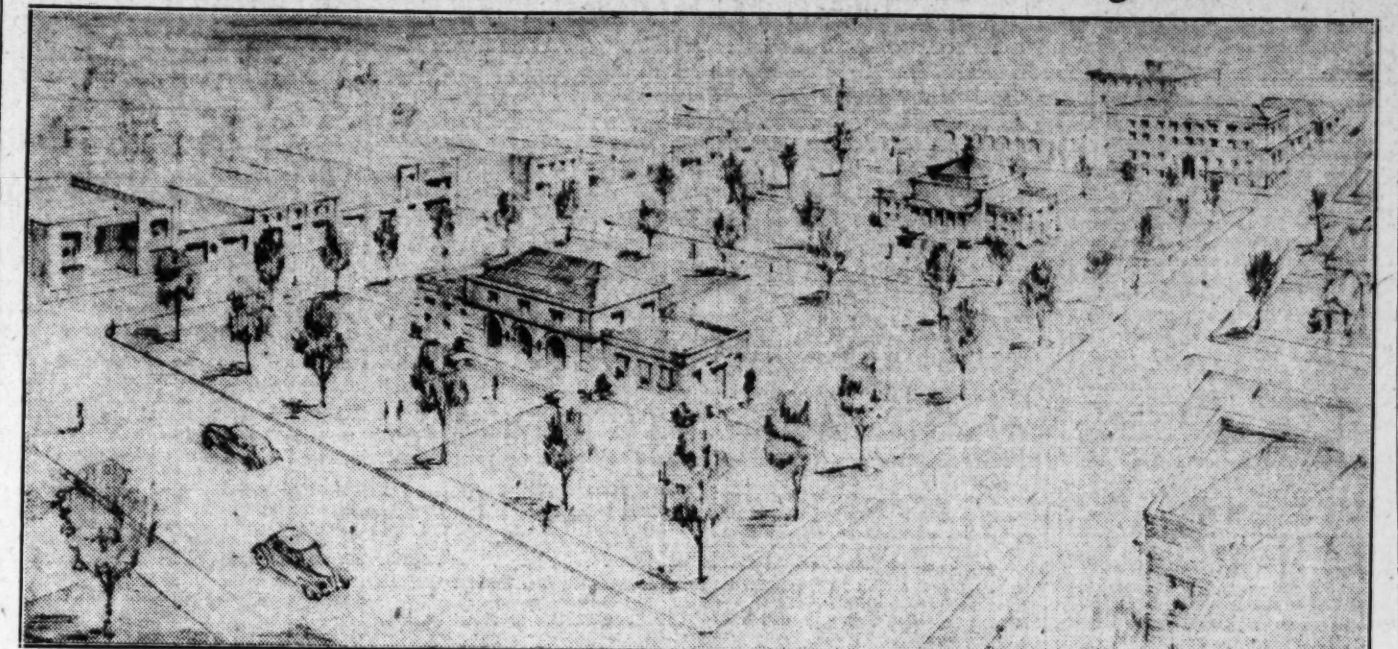

Men's fashion magazines, he stated, are useful to any man in business.

IMPORTANT NOTE: In case you have any doubts about what to wear and when to wear it, we should be happy to send you a "Chart of Correct Dress—Approved by Esquire." Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ESQUIRE will answer all questions on men's fashions. Write MEN'S FASHION DEPARTMENT, THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION and inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Gainesville's New Civic Center To Be Given Start Through U. S. Funds

Gainesville's new civic center, made possible through co-operation between the federal government and the city and county government, will arise in the heart of the city that was leveled a few months ago by a tornado. This architect's drawing, prepared by Daniel & Beutell, Atlanta architects, shows how the proposed center will look. In the foreground is the city hall. On the next square is the courthouse and behind them is the federal building, completed last year. Work on the courthouse, to cost $180,000, will start within two weeks.

Signatures were placed yesterday on the contracts that mean a new courthouse for Hall county. Seated, left to right, are J. Houston Johnston, acting state director for the PWA, and R. G. McConnell, chairman of roads and revenues of Hall county. Standing, left to right, are J. Clark Johnston, chief engineer of the PWA; Charles Mion, Atlanta contractor, who will build the courthouse; Boyd J. Holland, member of the Hall county commission; G. Fred Kelley, Hall county attorney, and Russell Beutell, of Daniel & Beutell, Atlanta architects for the project. Staff photo by George Cornett.

He was 67 years of age. His funeral will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the First Baptist church, Hapeville, where Mr. Anderson had served for many years as a pastor. Dr. B. J. W. Graham, Dr. Z. W. Brown, Dr. Louis D. Newton, Mrs. C. C. Cotney and Rev. P. C. Barkley have part in the funeral service. Burial will take place in the cemetery. Active pallbearers will be Jere

Orphans' Home Head Dies

WILLIAM P. ANDERSON.

Wells, Thomas H. Pitts, Forrest C. Garard, Brown Tyler, Colonel George P. Whitman and John H. Merritt.

Honorary Escort.
Honorary escorts will include the trustees of the Georgia Baptist Orphans' Home, Fulton County Board of Education, deacons of the Hapeville Baptist church, official staff of the orphans' home, members of the Atlanta Baptist Ministers' Conference. In tribute to Mr. Anderson, offices of the Fulton County Board of Education will be closed today.

Before accepting the superintendency of the Baptist orphanage, Mr. Anderson was a member of the wholesale grocery firm of W. W. Anderson & Son, one of the oldest business houses in Atlanta. He was member of the Atlanta city council from the seventh ward for a number of years and during his period of service in council was president of the park board of Atlanta.

Mr. Anderson was active in fraternal and civic organizations. He was a member of the Inter-Civilian Club of College Park, Hapeville, and East Point, and he was a member of the W. D. Luckie Lodge, F. & A. M. Masons. Mr. Anderson worked with many organizations in Atlanta and the suburban communities for the development of institutions of charity.

Born in Alabama.
He was born in Cleburne county, Alabama, June 30, 1869, the son of W. W. Anderson and Elsie Robinson Anderson. He came to Atlanta with his parents and entered business as a young man. He married Miss Loretta Barford, of Atlanta, and Springfield, Mo., who survives him. They had one son, Roy Anderson, of New York city. He also is survived by two sisters, Mrs. L. A. Saxon and Mrs. S. E. White.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have been life-long leaders in the Baptist denomination. They were baptized by Dr. D. W. Gwin at the Central Baptist church in the early nineties. Mr. Anderson was an officer in the West End Baptist church before moving to Hapeville.

Since becoming superintendent of the Baptist Orphans' Home, Mr. Anderson has aroused great interest in the work of the institution, having added substantial acreage to the home property and adding a number of modern buildings to the campus. The Georgia Baptist Orphans' Home has the largest enrollment of any home for children in the state, maintaining an average enrollment of approximately 300 children.

Many Features Developed.
Mr. Anderson associated with him a group of trained men and women and with this staff he developed many features at the home. The dairy is one of the finest in the south, having recently been awarded a national honor. The poultry department supplies the needs of the home with choice fowl. The boys are taught many trades by which they are fitted for lives of practical usefulness and self-support. The farm provides many of the necessities of the home and at the same time training for the boys who are interested in agriculture as a life vocation. The print shop is another of the features of the home.

Businessmen throughout the state have rallied to Mr. Anderson's leadership at the home, realizing his ability to handle the practical details of the institution and make every dollar count in service to the children and in the establishment of permanent investments for future value to the home.

The children of the home always called Mr. Anderson "Uncle Pat."

OFFICERS SEE NEGRO CRITICALLY WOUNDED

Two patrolmen witnessed a shooting at Auburn avenue and Fort street in which Manuel Johnson, 39, negro, of 305 Old Wheat street, was critically wounded in the abdomen with a bullet from a .38-caliber revolver shortly before last midnight.
Radio Patrolmen J. J. Masters and W. C. Nix passed the intersection on their way to police headquarters to sign off for the night. They arrested a negro listed as John H. Lucius, 22, of 338 Piedmont avenue, on a charge of suspicion of murder.
Johnson was admitted to Grady hospital.

251 DIVORCE DECREES GRANTED WITHIN WEEK

Two hundred and fifty-one divorce decrees were handed out by the Fulton superior court this week during the trial of the undefended divorce calendar.

Judge E. D. Thomas called a total of 324 cases from Monday through Thursday but 73 plaintiffs failed to appear. It was the smallest divorce calendar in recent months.

"There seem to be fewer divorces this year," Judge Thomas commented. "Perhaps the depression taught tolerance to a great many and then, too, times are better now and the money trouble is not so pronounced."

Soap Box Derby Winner Of 1935 To Broadcast

Atlanta youngsters qualifying for the All-American Soap Box Derby on July 25 will have an opportunity at 6:05 o'clock tonight to hear Joe Harrell Jr., 1935 champion, tell "just how it's done," in a radio broadcast over station WGST.

In addition to telling the thrills he had during last year's race, the champion will also describe his trip to the national contest at Akron, Ohio. He will be questioned by John Fulton, of WGST.

Officials of the race have predicted there will be twice as many entries in the race July 25 as there were last year. With little more than two weeks remaining before the contest, final regulations and rules for building cars will be discussed tonight by one of the directors, following Harrell's interview.

Grocery Executive Loud in Praise Of Atlanta as Progressive City

Albert H. Morrill Lauds Climate, Prosperity and Civic Grace.

ALBERT H. MORRILL.

Atlanta not only looks good on financial records but also presents a surprising combination of social grace, beauty and thriving industry to the visitor coming to the city for the first time, according to Albert H. Morrill, president of two large grocery chains, who paid his first visit to Atlanta yesterday.

Mr. Morrill, executive head of the Piggy Wiggly corporation and the Kroger Grocery & Baking Company, is on a tour of various company territories and visited Atlanta yesterday before returning to his main office in Cincinnati.

"I've seen quite a few cities on this trip but Atlanta has presented the most delightful surprise of any," he declared. "Everyone looks prosperous and happy, well-dressed and friendly. I like a city like that. The people here seem to be living like enlightened and progressive human beings should."

Was Attorney.
Mr. Morrill was a practicing attorney before going into business. He was admitted to the bar in 1900 and became a senior partner in a Cincinnati law firm. When he entered business he quickly became recognized as one of the leading figures in the field and was named president of the National Chain Store Association.

He is a member of a number of clubs and is president of the Alhambra Hunt Club.

His visit to Atlanta, Mr. Morrill declared, is a high spot on his trip. In spite of the sweltering temperature which has been assailing the city for the past several days, he asserted he was delighted with the climate.

Likes Our Climate.
"No wonder Atlanta is such a thriving city," he said. "Here you have marvelous natural resources, energy and executive ability, good transportation facilities and, to top it all, a climate that makes living a real pleasure. In fact, as a Cincinnati, I might say the climate is just as good as that in Cincinnati."

Mr. Morrill said one of the most striking things about the city is the large amount of construction going on here.

City Looks Clean.
"The large number of new buildings and buildings under construction here is actually amazing," he declared. "That alone speaks for the progressiveness of Atlanta and this section. And the old buildings apparently are kept clean and in good repair, so that this city, compared with many others, is an example of cleanliness."

"I can understand why national business concerns consider this section one of their most valuable territories and always try to develop it to its fullest."

ONE-EYED BURGLAR CAUGHT IN RESIDENCE

An impromptu vigilante committee, armed with pistols, rifles and shotguns, surrounded the home of D. H. Smith at 391 Edwards street shortly after 10 o'clock last night as Radio Patrolmen J. C. Tanner and H. M. Summerlin entered and captured a one-eyed burglar suspect in the attic.

About a dozen citizens organized themselves when Smith, who had gone across the street to the home of a friend, noticed a light in the home. The suspect gave his name as Joe Mitchell, 28, of Lithonia. Police said he was preparing to ransack the house, carrying a suit case for loot. Nothing was taken, however. A charge of suspicion was placed against him.

spite Wednesday's rains, July delivery closed here at $1.06 7/8 to $1.06 1/4, with prices generally 3/8 to 1/2 higher. About 20 cents a bushel has been added to wheat's value here since drought destruction got under way in the northwest spring wheat belt a month ago.

Large field reports continued to emphasize need for rain within a week if the important corn crop was to be saved.

Meanwhile, the government's aid program was under way and President Roosevelt announced in Washington he would send a relief mission to the northwest at a conference with directors Friday.

Crop Prospects Fade. United States Senator Elmer Benson, of Minnesota, declaring the crop prospects continued to fade in the west central portion of his state, started on an inspection tour. He said he felt Washington authorities were not sufficiently impressed yet with the magnitude of the disaster in the west.

In North Dakota, Governor Walter Welford announced he would offer a state drought and pest insurance measure at the next session of the legislature.

New York's concern over a possible scarcity of milk and other foodstuffs in the metropolitan area prompted State Agriculture Commissioner Peter Ten Eyck to call a conference for Saturday to discuss the situation.

Though showers added fuel to the forest fire fighters in western states, reports from Sheridan, Wyo., showed many head of cattle and wild animals had perished in the blazes.

ONE-YEAR MORATORIUM ON LOANS GRANTED.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—A moratorium of one year on rehabilitation loans obtained by the drought-stricken farm families in officially designated drought counties was announced today by the resettlement administration.

The administration said the moratorium would be allowed to farmers who can make a specific showing of lack of cash resources to meet the obligation.

Administration spokesmen said there was no way to determine immediately how much money would be involved. They estimated, however, that from 25,000 to 30,000 farm families in North and South Dakota, Montana and Wyoming would take advantage of the year's delay.

In these four states the administration was reported to have approximately $7,000,000 outstanding in rehabilitation loans.

The rehabilitation loans are made to needy families and bear 5 per cent interest. Maturity dates range from 2 to 5 years.

A total of 268 counties in nine states have been given official drought designation.

Meanwhile, Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator, announced today that 20,000 farmers in drought areas of North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, Georgia and Alabama would be put to work at once on WPA work projects in their states.

Williams said state Works Progress Administrators in the affected southern states were ordered to expedite employment.

This action in the southern states brings the total of persons to be given work relief jobs in the drought areas of the midwest and south to 75,000.

Two drawbridges over the Harlem river in New York were closed to traffic for several hours during the afternoon when the heat expanded their steelwork so much that they could not be lowered into position.

Sixty-three men arrested for sleeping in parks here last night received suspended sentences, although they were warned not to repeat the offense.

U. S. HAS $40,000,000 INTEREST IN DIXIE CROP

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—With a $40,000,000 loan interest in this year's crops in southern states, the Resettlement Administration is keeping a watchful eye on drought areas of that section.

R. G. Tugwell, resettlement administrator, planned to leave here tomorrow for Birmingham, Ala., to inspect four near-by resettlement projects.

To July 1 the Resettlement Administration had loaned a total of $39,525,185 to 138,476 farm families in 14 southern states and had distributed an additional $3,400,477 in

GRASSHOPPERS ADD TO DIXIE DAMAGE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 9.—(UP)—Farmers of mid-southern states, their crops already curbed because of drought, girded themselves for a new battle to-night—to destroy ravenous grasshoppers which are practically destroying thousands of acres of cotton.

The attack so far has centered in northwest Arkansas, where agricultural authorities estimated more than 50,000 acres of cotton have been mutilated during the past week.

Upwards of 100,000 acres of cotton, corn and a few other crops have been attacked throughout the state and in southeast Missouri, east Tennessee and north Mississippi.

West Tennessee farmers said the grasshoppers were present only in small numbers. But with only the Mississippi river separating their farms from those being overrun in Arkansas, little hope was held the crops would escape unscathed.

In some parts of town there is an average infestation of from 75 to 100 grasshoppers to the square rod.

HEART BALM VERDICT AWARDED DETROIT MAN

the two young men of wealth each strove mightily to convince the shirt-sleeved jurors that his client was right and his opponents were wrong.

Attorney Fred Botts for the dark, 27-year-old Edgar, member of a wealthy Michigan sugar family, shook his finger accusingly at Mallory, duke of the night hawk of Deauville.

"He has ruined this home and disgraced this young woman. At least, Mr. Mallory, I give you credit for being enough of a gentleman to get on to the stand and deny it."

Attorney John Murrell for the slim, scrawny Bradford Pa. oil money, waved his fist beneath Edgar's unflinching jaw, and as loudly as Botts he shouted:

"For a man to ask money for the indiscretions of his wife either before or after they're separated, I don't see any difference, any man who tries to commercialize on the body of his wife, I say this man is nothing more than a glorified whoreson."

He finished with an unprintable appeal.

Each of the attorneys spoke of Miss Crawford, too.

"I am not here to criticize the young lady. I think it's a matter for sympathy. It's true she seems to have overstepped the bounds of propriety but that does not alter the fact that she's not a bad woman."

"Providence would be kinder if it would strike her down and take her life than send her back to the world branded as an unfashionable wife."

The case hinged to a large extent on whether there had been a bedroom meeting of Mallory and Miss Crawford in the oil heir's suite in the Deauville hotel, as Edgar charged and both the others flatly denied.

Edgar testified he chanced to look through the unblinded window of Mallory's bedroom. The electric lights, he said, were on.

Q. Please describe what you saw.

A. I saw Mrs. Edgar and Mr. Mallory on the bed.

Q. What were they doing and what were they saying?

A. I couldn't tell you what they were saying. They were holding each other.

But Miss Crawford, winning her fight to appear as court witness and defend her reputation, soon came to the stand.

Q. Mrs. Edgar, it has been stated here that on five to 10 occasions you were in Mr. Mallory's hotel room and committed certain acts of indiscretion. I want you to tell this jury whether you were ever in Mr. Mallory's room at any time.

A. I was never in Mr. Mallory's room.

Q. Did you ever commit any acts of indiscretion with Mr. Mallory in any other room?

A. I did not.

Mallory, asked whether Edgar's statement of the bedroom scene was true, replied:

"Absolutely not."

Q. And all these other people who testified about that, they're all a bunch of damn liars?

A. Every one of them.

The Detroit's attorney presented several hotel employees who told of witnessing similar misconduct between Mallory and Miss Crawford, but the defense countered these witnesses with others from the Deauville who swore they had equal opportunity to see and never did.

The defense also claimed Miss Crawford's love for Edgar failed long before she met the curly-headed Bradford Pa. youth last winter at Miami Beach, and thus there were no affections to alienate.

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS

"So They Were Married" Held Over at Rialto

Continual chorus of praise from audiences leaving the Rialto theater last week has resulted in the holding over of the feature picture, "And So They Were Married," for a second week. Manager W. T. Murray said the unanimous delight in this romantic comedy and requests from many patrons for opportunity to send their friends to enjoy it, induced him to keep it for a second, and positively final, week.

Chief credit for the success of this Columbia production must be accorded to two very young players, Edith Fellows and Jackie Moran. Edith Fellows you remember as "the brat" with Claudette Colbert in "The Bride Comes Home." Jackie Moran is new, but he is a clever and very human-looking boy of about 12.

The two children are the gods in the machine who first disrupt, and later re-establish, the romance between their respective parents, a widower and a widow. The two older roles are played with complete effectiveness by Melvyn Douglas and Mary Astor.

Scenes are chiefly laid in a resort hotel, opening its doors for the first time for the Christmas holidays. A snowdrift isolates the place, with the only guests the widow and her daughter and the widower and his son.

It is the two children who really lift the film to its unusual popularity and, when you go to see it, it is they who will make you laugh yourself hysterical.

"San Francisco" Is Held Second Week at Grand

Its favor continuing to mount, as more and more spectators attest its fine qualities, "San Francisco" will be held for a second week at Loew's Grand theater. This film combines romance, music and stirring spectacle and presents a cast which includes Clark Gable, Jeanette MacDonald, Spencer Tracy, Jack Holt and Jessie Ralph. It is the story of a pleasure resort in San Francisco's notorious Barbary coast section. Miss MacDonald, as the singer, is torn between her love for a man of the underworld and the wealth and position offered her by Jack Holt, appearing as a well-to-do San Franciscan, in love with the girl and anxious to sponsor her operatic career.

Miss MacDonald sings many songs of great variety. She sings catchy-romantic ballads in the cabaret, brilliant operatic numbers in the opera house and hymns in the mission run by her benevolent friend, Father Mullin. Spencer Tracy is seen as the understanding priest.

Packed with human drama, "San Francisco" reaches its climax in a series of scenes depicting the dreadful San Francisco earthquake and fire of 1906. Throughout all the various elements, only S. V. Dye's brilliant direction, there runs a story of strong and universal appeal, made real by the fine cast assembled.

"Times Square Playboy" At Capitol on Sunday

Patrons of the Capitol theater have in store another big variety program starting Sunday, when a brand-new stage and screen program will be offered as the only new show in downtown Atlanta.

The new feature picture will be "Times Square Playboy" with Warren Williams, June Travis, Barton MacLane, Gene Lockhart and Kathleen Lockhart in the leading roles. "Times Square Playboy" is a rollicking Warner Brothers comedy, filled with tense drama and heart interest as well as laughs and is based on one of George M. Cohan's most famous stage successes.

The new stage show contains a number of outstanding big-time vaudeville acts. There is a cast of 25 stage and radio stars offering eight acts of vaudeville and featuring a 15-piece stage band.

The current feature picture at the Capitol is one of the most interesting to play there this summer. It's a story about two girl lawyers and their fight against the underworld. Glenda Farrell, Margaret Lindsay, Warren Hull and Lyle Talbot have the leading roles.

On the stage through Saturday is an outstanding vaudeville revue, "Chatterbox Revue."

Tonight at 9 o'clock the Capitol will present the regular Friday night amateur contest in which a group of talented amateurs will compete for the three prizes offered by the management.

Annie Belle Hunnicutt Sings This Week at Fox

Annie Belle Hunnicutt, known on Ponce de Leon avenue as "Mrs. Crawford's cook, Annie Belle," and now known throughout the country as "the mummy of Dixie" who sings all the old spirituals like they have never been sung before, will be featured at the Fox theater for a week in a song and dance production of "The Green Pastures," which opens a week's run tomorrow.

Arrangements were made for Annie Belle's appearance here with Warner Brothers and Major Edward Bowes by Mrs. Lillian Crawford, of 1156 Ponce de Leon avenue, who sponsored her negro cook's sudden rise to fame. Mrs. Crawford immigrated from New York to appear in the national amateur radio contest. Annie Belle sang, the next morning, everyone who had heard the program confined their comment almost entirely in the singing of the Georgia dirge.

Annie Belle and her employer, who is acting as her guardian and manager, are in Atlanta on a short vacation and will return to New York shortly after Annie Belle's week of singing the "Green Pastures" type of songs at the Fox theater.

WOMAN EXONERATED ON GEM THEFT CHARGE

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—Cleared of a charge of stealing $3,000 worth of jewelry from an Atlanta (Ga.) woman, Miss Sissy Rydberg, 50 (479 Central Park west) was held today for immigration on suspicion of being illegally in the United States.

Miss Rydberg was accused by Mrs. Haf Seale of having given her a sleeping potion and of taking several rings and a bracelet from her while she was under its influence.

Magistrate Nathan D. Peckman in felony court judged the evidence not sufficient to warrant Miss Rydberg's being held for the grand jury. She is a native of Sweden.

F. D. R. WILL ARBITRATE 100-YEAR-OLD DISPUTE

Ecuador and Peru Submit Boundary Issue to President.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—To promote the spirit of the "good neighbor" in the Americas, President Roosevelt tonight assumed the role of arbitrator in the 100-year-old boundary dispute between Peru and Ecuador.

Senator Manuel V. Freyre, the Peruvian ambassador, and Captain Colon Eloy Alfaro, the Ecuadorian minister, called at the White House during the day to advise the President that boundary commissions would arrive here in September to begin arbitral negotiations.

After discussing the arbitration arrangements with the envoys, the President issued this statement:

"On February 6, 1934, I consented to serve as arbitrator in the boundary dispute between the republic of Ecuador and the republic of Peru in accordance with terms of the Ponce de Leon Oryanguren protocol concluded between those two countries in 1921, which provided that if the two governments were unable to fix a definite line through direct negotiation, the zone upon which they could not agree should be submitted to the arbitral decision of the President of the United States."

"I have been particularly glad to receive, today, the visit of the ambassador of Peru and the minister of Ecuador, who have officially advised me that the nature of the arbitration has now been agreed upon by the two governments through a further protocol signed on July 6, last, which also provides that the delegations of the respective countries will commence their final negotiations in Washington on September 30, next."

"This decision of these two great republics to hasten the peaceful adjudication of this long continuing controversy will be regarded as a motive for encouragement and gratitude by all lovers of peace on the American continent."

"It will do much to insure the success of the deliberations of the 21

AMERICAN republics at the approaching inter-American peace conference."

The area in dispute between Peru and Ecuador encompasses an expanse of jungle and table-land in the heart of unexplored South America 500 miles long and 400 miles wide and equal to approximately 120,000 square miles.

PENSION LEADER SEEKS COALITION WITH LEMKE

DENVER, July 9.—(AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend said today his movement may effect a coalition with Representative William Lemke's union party and the forces of Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, who has endorsed the Lemke organization.

"If they will join our pension plan, we will go along together," said the old age pension leader.

Dr. Townsend was accompanied by the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, leader in the "share-the-wealth" movement launched by the late Senator Huey Long.

"Dissatisfied groups, headed by Dr. Townsend, Father Coughlin, Lemke and myself, will control at least 215 of the 435 votes in the house of representatives during the next congress," Smith said.

PENSION LEADER SEEKS COALITION WITH LEMKE

DENVER, July 9.—(AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend said today his movement may effect a coalition with Representative William Lemke's union party and the forces of Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, who has endorsed the Lemke organization.

"If they will join our pension plan, we will go along together," said the old age pension leader.

Dr. Townsend was accompanied by the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, leader in the "share-the-wealth" movement launched by the late Senator Huey Long.

"Dissatisfied groups, headed by Dr. Townsend, Father Coughlin, Lemke and myself, will control at least 215 of the 435 votes in the house of representatives during the next congress," Smith said.

"I have been particularly glad to receive, today, the visit of the ambassador of Peru and the minister of Ecuador, who have officially advised me that the nature of the arbitration has now been agreed upon by the two governments through a further protocol signed on July 6, last, which also provides that the delegations of the respective countries will commence their final negotiations in Washington on September 30, next."

"This decision of these two great republics to hasten the peaceful adjudication of this long continuing controversy will be regarded as a motive for encouragement and gratitude by all lovers of peace on the American continent."

"It will do much to insure the success of the deliberations of the 21

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.
Problems of general interest, especially those of the young, are discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

It is strange that so many women who adore their daughters, do everything for their children's health, morals, manners, good appearance and general welfare, are stone blind to their duty in the one thing necessary to a girl's happiness—friendship with the boys. I receive hundreds of letters from young girls agonizing over their isolation from the opposite sex and one has only to read these letters to know where the blame lies: right at the door of parents who have been too stupid, or too short-sighted, or too selfish to pull the strings and resort to a few simple strategies to make social life safe and sane for their daughters.

Soon after the first teeth appear mother sends her tiny tot to the dentist making ready for permanent teeth. When the little one is a toddler and talks she is sent to kindergarten to be prepared for the long years of schooling and education. Likewise when the little girl goes to school then is the time for mother to make ready for the years when dates and dances, boy friends and more boy friends spell joyous and happy life for a girl. Mother has plenty of warning of what's coming and if she ignores the warning, or protests it, or even if she fails to take advantage of the opportunity, she is neglecting her duty.

One fine day she looks out of the window and sees a gale of gentlemen of 12 swinging along carrying daughter's books. The telephone tinkles in the afternoon and on the other end is a young hopeful breathing a prayer that the right party will answer. But if mother takes down the receiver the timid one slips his receiver on the hook with not a word of greeting. Mother is getting her cues and getting them fast. If she takes them she will never regret it.

There are a good many years from 12 on when the young things get a big kick out of playing games together but they are timid and self-conscious about making arrangements. The boys are terribly shy of the grown-ups and unless mother invites boys and girls in for games indoors and outdoors they will give her a wide berth. If she throws her home open to them and shows herself sympathetic with their get-togethers they soon lose their timidity and accept her as one of their group.

Girls who have grown up with boys as playmates and comrades make an easy transition from childhood to young ladyhood. They haven't the quailing fear of the opposite sex that makes them self-conscious and unattractive. In the words of a wise mother: they scarcely know when the boys cease to be playmates and begin to be beaux. Their friendships with the boys are safely established and even though some of them may lack the come-hither that makes them belles of the ball, they get occasional opportunity to shake a foot with a tried and trusted friend of childhood days.

Most of the unhappy girls who are grieving because they have no dates and no invitation to the dance are in this fix because their parents didn't have gumption enough to look out for the happiness of their daughters as they looked out for their health, their morals and their manners.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Emory Professor Discusses Local Government at Virginia Institute.

Southern local government suffers because there are too many counties, too much decentralization of county government, too much haphazard financing and taxation, and too many untrained people in county personnel, Professor Cullen B. Gosnell, of Emory University, Virginia Institute of public affairs. Professor Gosnell was discussing "Problems of Local Government in Relation to the South."

Attacking the multiplicity of counties found in southern states, he said more efficiency in operating and administering local communities would be achieved if reforms were instituted. "I am wholeheartedly in favor of county reorganization," Professor Gosnell declared. "Not only could much money be saved, but efficiency could be improved by reorganization." Dr. Gosnell also questioned Governor Talmadge's stand that county consolidation is undesirable and would not effect savings. He pointed out that in Georgia, which is divided into 159 counties, some of the subdivisions have less than 10,000 population. These counties, Professor Gosnell concluded, inevitably withdraw from the state treasury more money than they deposit.

Tentative Sum for Vocational Education in State Put at $440,650.04.

The State Board of Education received notice from the United States office of education today that $440,650.04 has been tentatively allotted for vocational education. The bill providing a total of $12,000,000 for the promotion of vocational education in the United States does not become effective until July 1, 1937.

Schools will not be able to secure aid for establishing departments of vocational education until the school year of 1937-38. State Superintendent of Schools M. D. Collins said Georgia is now receiving approximately $275,000 for the promotion of vocational education under the Smith-Hughes and George-Elliott acts.

"As a result of the vocational program which was started in a small way in 1917," said Collins, "and which has gradually increased from year to year, we have in Georgia today thousands of young men engaged in farming who have had from one to four years' training in vocational agriculture."

"We also have thousands of young women engaged in the important work of making homes who have had from one to four years of training in home-making. A large number of people have been given practical training to fit them for a definite trade as a result of the trade and industrial program."

HAMILTON WILL OPEN HEADQUARTERS HERE

George B. Hamilton, ousted state treasurer, and candidate for reelection, announced yesterday he would open campaign headquarters here shortly, at the Henry Grady hotel. The headquarters will be in the same rooms formerly occupied by the Roosevelt campaign committee.

Hamilton announced Horace A. Hixon, for many years cashier of the treasury department, would manage his campaign.

Hamilton was ousted by Governor Talmadge for refusing to go along with Talmadge in operating the state without an appropriations bill. Talmadge appointed J. B. Daniel, of LaGrange, former member of the Public Service Commission, Hamilton's successor. Daniel is a candidate for treasurer also.

The ousted treasurer said it is gratifying to be receiving such universal pledges of support from all sections of Georgia... even before the campaign gets under way.

A chart set for this birth date shows the major planets on the eastern side of the chart, emphasizing pride and ambition. She would love beauty in all forms, harmony in mental, moral and physical being essential to her well-being. The Sun's position gives vitality, energy and force, independence and enthusiasm.

The Mercury position makes her keen and witty, alert and practical. The Moon-Mars position adds courage to the nature. The Sun-Saturn position gives great capacity for work and high ideals. The Venus-Sun position adds a love for music and the fine arts.

The position of the dragon's head (Rahu according to Hindu astrologers) becomes the promise of marked attainment in some specific way. It likewise has the influence of Jupiter, emphasizing financial ability and positions of honor and trust.

The Moon position favors travel and long voyages. It also confers longevity and conscientiousness.

The position of one who possesses the happy ability to finish successfully, whatever she may undertake.

RECOGNIZING A FORCING PASS

Almost all players are familiar with bridge terms, but a great many are hazy as to their exact meaning and what is much more important, the correct application. The term "forcing pass," falls into the category. The test of whether a pass is of a forcing or garden variety is just the Has your partner's previous bidding been such as to indicate strongly that he expects you to take some action over his final pass? Is so, you are obligated to follow his advice, or either double for penalties or go with your own bidding. The situation in today's hands being typical, worthy of study by those players who are not quite certain about the forcing pass.

The bidding:

South West North East

Pass Pass 1 heart Pass

3 hearts 3 spades Pass Pass

4 hearts Pass Pass 4 spades

Pass Pass Pass

North was so obsessed with the fact that he had made a feathery weight bid, the last sight of implications of each successive around the table. He was correct passing to West's bid of three spades first, because he had no additional values of any description and, secondly, because partner, by his jump to 4 spades, had assumed a certain amount of control over the North-South destiny. The fact that the East failed to raise spades until he was forced to do so, over South's rebid to four hearts, clearly escaped North's attention. This was a minor compared to the application in South's pass to 4 spades. Few things could be more important than to assume that South had boosted the opponents into a game contract that he thought they had chance to make. Thus his pass, from being a confession of weakness was pure of the four and five bid levels. True, no great loss resulted from his failure to double, since opponents' contract was defeated on the trump suit. But though the 2-point difference was not nearly as important as the fact that North could not recognize a forcing pass when he heard one.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Dealer, not vulnerable, bid four hearts. What should second hand, vulnerable, bid with: Spade Q 7 5, hearts none, diamonds A Q 6 2, clubs A Q J 8?

Answer: Four notrump. This bid tantamount to a take-out double, with the additional advantage that partner is absolutely forced to respond with his best suit. Not through his trick or more in the heart suit. The strength of this hand is so great that five-odd in partner's choice appears safe.

NANCY PAGE

Jellied Veal Is An Excellent Dish for Summer Luncheons

By FLORENCE La GANKE.

Lois was a guest at a luncheon where the main course was built around molds of jellied veal. The first course had been a perfectly delicious vichoisaise soup. With this had been passed small rounds of bread cut the exact size of a well marinated firm slice of tomato. The jellied veal was served with toasted scones, a salad made of cubed cucumber, fresh crisp and coarsely chopped fresh spinach, raw, dressed allowed the meat to cool in the liquid in which it was cooked. When cool she put the meat through the meat chopper and measured two cups of cold veal. To this she added one-quarter cup sherry or cold veal broth. She worked this well with a spoon until the mixture was smooth. She soaked one tablespoon gelatin in one-quarter cup cold veal broth. She measured two cups of broth and heated it. The jellied veal was then poured into the mold and the gelatin was added. Then she added the meat well-seasoned, and folded in one cup of whipped cream and one tablespoon of green pepper chopped and one-quarter cup sauteed mushrooms. In the bottom of the individual molds she put a slice of hard cooked egg. The veal mixture went in and the molds set in a cold place to harden. At serving time they were unmolded and served with the hard cooked egg slice appearing at the top of each mold.

WOMAN'S RIGHT TO SUE VOIDED BY MARRIAGE

The Georgia court of appeals held yesterday a wife cannot sue her husband for injuries sustained before their marriage, even if they are separated when the suit is brought.

The ruling, made in a case brought by Mrs. Rosa Carmichael, in Polk county superior court, was based on the common law. The court said the old rule is still in effect in Georgia in this regard.

Mrs. Carmichael alleged in her suit she was injured in an automobile accident while riding with W. Carmichael. She claimed permanent injury and $10,000 damages.

The record shows they were married and lived together about a year. "Under the common law a right of action by a wife for antenuptial wrongs committed by her husband are extinguished by their subsequent marriage," the court said in sustaining a Talapoosa circuit superior court ruling throwing the case out.

My Day By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Wednesday.—After driving in from the airport I arrived in New York last night at 12:45. My only other fellow passenger was a very nice young man, who confided to me that he had learned to fly because he had had so many automobile accidents, and that he thought on the whole it was safer to fly.

I had no idea what his name was, but he told me he was in the same business as our eldest son, and that he knew that our second son had been interested in aviation, so we had plenty to talk about. When we got out he introduced himself and I felt that I had made a very pleasant new acquaintance.

Mrs. Scheider and I had an early breakfast on the balcony, after which we gathered up our bags and arrived at my daughter's apartment at 9 a. m. The National Youth administrator for New York, Mr. McCloskey, joined us there. By 9:30 we were on our way to Camp Adams and arrived there simultaneously with the press and the photographers. It was interesting to me to be back in this old camp, which is being re-organized, and is now giving considerably more education.

A few changes have been made in the actual camp itself, but the routine is much as it always was. I think the Youth Administration is using better judgment in its choice of girls, so there were more girls there than there used to be under the old FERA management.

As we drove away my daughter said something to me which is very true. She felt that to most of these young people, whose sorrows seem to arise out of a lack of money, the possession of money is the answer to every problem. One of the things I think we need to emphasize to all young people, whether rich or poor, is the fact that while people need to be able to provide themselves with a decent standard of living, the money which makes such a standard possible will not give them a happy life if they lack certain other qualifications in themselves.

We visited the Hudson Guild Camp, Felicia, where young girls and boys are taken for the summer. I am now on my way to Hyde Park.

VACATION DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN

Sunshine heats, but sunburn peels! Taking your sunshine all in one sitting and your exercise all in one horseback ride may ruin your two weeks' vacation.

Ease into your play and let your vacation mean as much as it can in health, beauty and fun. Muscles that have been sitting around all winter revolt at galloping up and down hills.

Vacation begins with complete relaxation of the mind and body. Keyed-up system will react with a letdown from a lull.

Don't go around and don't try to rush things. There is nothing like laziness for banishing that worry-burly-baggy look. Lie around and let the sunshine and fresh air smooth out the wrinkles and untie muscles and tense nerves. Just let go and lounge and dream, and let your nervous system get all loose-jointed and young again.

Don't get to sleep in the sun, however! You will be done to a burn if you bask in the summer sun for any length of time between the hours of 11 a. m. and 2:30 p. m. Thirty minutes' complete beach exposure is plenty for a sojourn. You don't feel the burn for the breeze, but you'll feel it the next day! However, stay out of doors for hours during your vacation, because fresh air is a tonic that gives you a real sense of life and a new grip on youth.

Go slow and easy if you want to keep on friendly terms with exercise. If you haven't had any exercise for months, don't romp through two sets of tennis, take a long swim, climb a mountain and ride a horse all the first day or so. Take your exercise leisurely and comfortably, and flabby muscles will gain in tone and elasticity and you will gain energy and well being.

Exercise will, of course, arouse that appetite, and you must be on guard against vacation calories. Oh, no! You don't have to diet while on vacation! To avoid pounds, just have a calorie care for butter, bread, cream and desserts.

Fresh air, sunshine and outdoor exercise will even lure the indolent, being enough sleep. When the moonlight keeps you up to dance away the magic hours, treat yourself to 40 winks in the late afternoon. During sleep the body recuperates, and you need just as many hours as ever these balmy summer nights.

As the precious days slip by, you should feel renewed and fresh and on that certain Monday morning you will go back to the office rested from all your vacation.

GOVERNOR HEARS PLEA FOR LIFE BY MELTON

Governor Talmadge said yesterday he had taken under advisement the plea for clemency of Eli Melton, under death sentence for criminal assault. He was sentenced in Muscogee county (Columbus).

The hearing was brief. Counsel for Melton advanced the claim the crime was committed at night and that positive identification of Melton as the guilty person was impossible.

The state refuted this plea, citing evidence read into the record at Columbus.

A previous plea for clemency by Melton before the state prison commission was denied.

The case was then taken to the governor. Solicitor General A. Jones Perryman, of Columbus, represented the state at today's hearing. George P. Munro appeared for Melton.

BREAK O'DAY!
By Ralph McKee

"Wait until I brush these malaria germs out of the chair. I wouldn't want you to hurt the little fellows. Been around until I feel right friendly with 'em."

Jim Lindsey, the malaria patient, was sitting on the veranda of his hotel, getting back his strength.

"The new deal cured that malaria," he said. "If they want to carry Louisiana all they've got to do is take the cure down there."

"The government cured it?"

"Yeah, the government has invented some sort of new pill that cures malaria. The doctor gave it to me. I used to take quinine until my head roared like Niagara Falls. This new pill knocks out the fever in two hours."

"Man, it's the bitterest pill you ever tasted," he said. "I pitch a fast one down my throat but where it hits the bitterness goes right in and I can taste it until the next one."

"I got me a box of 'em. These doggone things are strong enough to cure the pneumonia or the hives. I think they will help out my fast ball. Also I am going to take a box of them back to Baton Rouge this winter to give to my bird dogs. I know these things will cure the running fits. It's the best medicine I ever saw."

Jim Lindsey brushed a couple of malaria germs off his knee. "See how weak they are," he said. "This medicine has got 'em on the run."

THE MAKINGS OF A SMART PITCHER.
George Grant, the new umpire, was sitting near by. "I wish I'd had some of those pills when I was with Dallas in 1932. I just lost all my stuff. I'd throw that fast one up there and it wasn't fast," he said.

"Shucks," said Jim Lindsey, "that's what makes a smart pitcher. The batters expect something. You throw the ball up there and there isn't enough on it to hit and so they think you are a smart pitcher."

"I was pretty smart, then," said George Grant. "I wasn't pitching anything."

"Well, you've got to have them expecting something," said Jim Lindsey. "It won't always work. I remember when I reported up in St. Louis. We were playing Brooklyn."

"It was in the seventh inning that Daz Vance got the first hit off me. I knew then something was wrong. I walked two and the bases were full. I felt bad. And my arm seemed to be gone."

"I bent over to get the resin bag and I couldn't straighten up. That was pretty bad. I didn't want to ask out of there so I finally managed to straighten up. Babe Herman was at bat."

"I tossed the ball up there like a gal throwing a bean bag and Babe Herman knocked a colored boy out of the center field stands."

"They took me out and an hour later they took out my appendix."

A MEDICAL CONVERSATION.
The conversation took a medical turn.

"Did you ever hear about my remedy for curing fits in dogs?" asked the Cracker pitcher.

"With malaria pills?"

"No. I went to a vet once about my dogs and he couldn't give me any help. The cure didn't work at all. And then one afternoon I walked into a bar to get a cigar and I heard a couple of drunks talking. And one of them was telling how to cure running fits in dogs with mercurochrome."

"So, I said to myself that I had listened to sober people and their remedies hadn't been any good and I'd try this one. I went home and I got my sick dog and I poured the mercurochrome down him. Then I didn't give him any water for eight hours. The next day I fed

HUGHES FAVORED TO ANNEX STATE AMATEUR CROWN

Tourney Wide Open With Zimmerman, Yates Rainwater Out.

By Roy White.

With Bill Zimmerman, young Augusta sharpshooter; Charlie Yates and Crawford Rainwater, not entered, Georgia's amateur golf championship tournament next week on the Capital City Country Club course will be a wide-open affair with any one of a dozen or more players having an equal chance to crash through to a winner's reward.

Zimmerman is attending a summer school camp, and Yates and Rainwater will be participating in the western amateur at Omaha, Neb., leaving the throne open for a newcomer.

HUGHES FAVORED.
Dr. Julius Hughes, runner-up in the past two Georgia tournaments at East Lake and Rome, is sharpening his weapons to get someone down in his path to the championship. And Dr. Hughes, due to his winning two Atlanta open championships on the Capital City course, will be installed the favorite and will be "at home" when it comes to championship competition at Capital City.

Hughes is not alone in having a burning desire to return the Georgia crown to Atlanta, where it has been sorely missing for a number of years.

Charlie Black Jr. and Dave Black, two former state winners, will be hard to get by on their home course next week. Bob Rickard, who last week carded five successive birdies to beat Tyre Jones, of Canton, Ga.; John Westmoreland, John Grant Jr. and Charlie Dannels Jr., will be other Capital City threats, who know almost every blade of grass at Capital City.

DRUID HILLS ENTRIES.
John Rothmanley Jr., Bob Cousins, Slim Bowden, Jimmy Wilson and Snap McCord will carry Druid Hills banner into the state tournament.

Jack Cook, Gene Gaillard, Jiroud Jones and Guy Whitehead will be the chief threats from Ansley Park.

East Lake will send a strong delegation into the tournament, despite the loss of Yates and Rainwater. The East Lake contingent was not certain as to their entry late Thursday.

Practice rounds will open Sunday and continue for two days. The qualifying rounds of 18 holes will be played on Tuesday. Match play will begin Wednesday with one round, another round will be played on Thursday, and the quarter and semi-finals on Friday and the finals on Saturday.

He Took Pass That Beat Tech

Stanley Bach, left fielder of the Smokies, was a principal figure in the controversy that raged over the play Kentucky used to beat Tech here in 1932. Bach thinks the play might have introduced an idea or two about use of the lateral pass and the slow whistle in the south. Kercheval threw a short forward to Dutch Kreuter, who was tackled but not downed. Kreuter flipped the ball to Bach, who ran some 10 yards for the winning touchdown. The controversy developed over the question as to whether it was a second forward. Officials ruled it wasn't. Bach said the pass was at least two yards backward. Staff photo.

Stanley Bach Recalls Pass That Beat Tech

Coach Alexander Protested "Illegal Lateral" in '32, As Bach Ran to Glory.

By Jack Troy.

Stanley (Pug) Bach, Knoxville left fielder, thinks to this day that the idea of the slow whistle and the feasibility of the lateral pass in the south was born in the muck of Grant field on October 8, 1932.

Bach has been asked thousands of times about the play Kentucky used to beat Tech in '32. And his answer has always been the same. "It was a lateral pass," he declares. "Dutch Kreuter lateralized the ball to me at least two yards backward."

Tech fans will recall the play and the subsequent arguments. The Jackets had come back to tie the score at 6-6 and it was in the fourth quarter that Kentucky pulled the winning play.

Ralph Kercheval tossed a short forward to Dutch Kreuter, left end. Kreuter was tackled on the spot but not downed. The official was slow with his whistle and Kreuter was seen to flip the ball to Bach, coming up on his right. Bach ran the remaining 10 yards to score.

FORWARD OR LATERAL?
Coach W. A. Alexander ran on the field and a lengthy argument ensued. The question was did Kreuter complete a second forward or did the ball go laterally to Bach?

The officials' ruling was that "a forward pass was completed, fumbled and intercepted by a Kentucky man."

Bach will tell you that after Kreuter received the pass and was promptly tackled, he turned and flipped the ball, a basketball, to him. "It was no second forward," he says, "and I think that it gave southern football an idea or two about utilizing such a play."

PLAYED BASKETBALL.
Kreuter was quite a basketball player and the pass was easy for him to control, according to Bach.

The lateral after a forward is quite common today. Tech used it extensively last fall, even throwing as many as three laterals on the same play.

At any rate, the play of 1932 caused a lot of stir. And even today, there is still some discussion of its legality. "It was legal, all right," declares Bach. "It was a tough play to get beat with. The Kentucky team did not pull anything that was not on the up-and-up."

Chatham and Harris Mysteries to Ira Thomas.
Ira Thomas admitted he was frankly puzzled by the improvement of Buster Chatham and Dave Harris.

"I can't understand why Buster Chatham should be having his best year of ball after all this time. He has been a fine player all along but he has suddenly developed into a great star with the Kentucky team. I don't know what's happened to him."

"Take Dave Harris. He was always big and rather slow in the big show. Now look at him. His legs are smaller and he gets down that first base line like a sprinter. He could never move around like that in the big leagues."

"After all these years, I find Dave Harris in the best condition of his career."

ROOKIE HURLER IN GREAT FORM TO RECORD 9TH

Atlantans Must Win This Afternoon for Even Break in Series.

By Jack Troy.

The Texas Kid had 'em hog-tied and branded. Meaning those Smokies out at Ponce de Leon park last night. He borrowed their slogan for the night saying, in effect, "Watch me, smoke!"

Yes, sir, it remained for Almo Williams, the young blood from Waxahatchie, to step in where other Cracker pitchers had failed and shut out the bold, bad Smokies, 3 to 0. Only two runners reached second; Williams allowed only four scattered singles.

It was a game which, until the eighth, saw hitting and scoring subservient to pitching and brilliant fielding on both sides. The Crackers committed grand larceny on several occasions and halted the Smokies' only two times they threatened to do any damage.

TWO GREAT KILLINGS.
The champions turned in extraordinary double plays each time. The third Mauldin was hit by pitched ball. Tony Fiarrio then hit to deep short, where wee Buster Chatham gobbled up the drive and shot the ball to Lipscomb, forcing Mauldin's Lipscomb threw off balance and pitched Fiarrio at first. Chatham raced into short center to rob Caldwell of hit, and ended the inning.

Then in the sixth Rio Rita—I mean Fiarrio—walked. Caldwell rapped sharp grounder at Lipscomb who grabbed it, tagged Fiarrio and made the throw to first in the nick of time.

It was a brilliant pitcher's battle for eight innings. Russ Bauers, 19-year-old rookie find of the Smokies, pitched well all the way, allowing only eight hits. But the Crackers got him twice for the runs that counted in such a battle.

Bauers had won six straight games. Continued on Third Sports Page.

CRACKERS BEAT KNOXVILLE, 3-0

for the Smokies up to last night. His first loss was a tough one.

NINTH FOR AL

Williams, on the other hand, recorded his ninth victory of the season against two defeats. The Texas Kid was right and cheered Ira Thomas, Athletic scout who was in the stands. Williams is the property of the A's for full delivery and he showed the A's scout a thing or two about his prospects last night.

Head-up base running accounted for the Crackers' first run in the fifth. Williams walked and was forced by Malibo. Browne flied out to Mauldin. Malibo stole second. Hooks hit a slow roller to second and beat it out. Malibo rounded third and kept going and the throw from Caldwell got there too late.

In the eighth, Richards singled and Harris scored him with a triple, his second of the night, off the signs in right. Harris scored the third and final run after the catch of Lipscomb's fly to left center.

And so, as the song writers say, that's the story of, that's the glory of the third game of the Cracker-Smoky series.

NIG TRIPLES

Nix Lipscomb walked a triple to left center in the sixth and was thrown out at the plate attempting to stretch it into a home run. A great relay from Stanley Bach to Flarito to Bandt made it possible. Flarito fired the ball to the plate from short center and Bandt placed his stalwart frame just in front of the plate. Lipscomb somersaulted over his shoulders.

Flarito started afield for the Smokies, handling 10 chances without an error. His leaping catch of Richards' line drive in the fifth prevented another run in that inning.

The final game of the series is scheduled this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Emil Leonard, new Cracker pitcher from Brooklyn, who has won his first two starts, will face the Smokies as the Crackers endeavor to secure an even break in the series. It may be that Leo (the Lion) Moon will roar out against the champions. Bill Beckman is a possibility.

Last night's victory enabled the Crackers to hold a lead of nine games with Nashville defeating Memphis. There was a paid attendance of 3,676. The presence of 2,900 ladies provided a total crowd of 5,576.

Warren Nine Wins From Gainesville

The Warren Company baseball team swamped the Gainesville, Ga., nine last night on the Warren athletic field to the score of 13 to 2 before a crowd of around 2,000 people in one of the fastest games of the season.

Ed Copeland pitching for the winners limited the Gainesville boys to six scattered hits while his mates were gathering 17 hits and bunting them into 13 runs off the offerings of Campbell.

Features of the game was the hitting of Harper, Barnes and Ford for the Warren Company and Campbell and Collins for Gainesville.

Yates Cards 68; Leaves Tonight

Charlie Yates, western amateur champion, will leave the city at 8 o'clock tonight for Omaha, Neb., where next week he will defend his title over the Happy Hollow Country Club course.

Yates will not be alone when the western starts, for Crawford Rainwater, medalist in the qualifying rounds for the state tournament last year, is already on the battle scene and ready to go.

Both players have been practicing hard during the past few weeks, and both are confident that they will last at least several rounds in the western.

In his last practice round on Thursday, Yates carded a sub-par 68 on the Capital City course. He played with Bill Currie, R. C. Williams and Ferris, a visitor from St. Louis.

J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, co-holder of the national indoor doubles crown, seeded No. 3, and Bernard Welsh, of Louisville, Md., national public parks champion, completed the semi-finals bracket.

Welsh scored a minor upset by rallying to defeat Wayne Sablin, of Hollywood, Cal., 3-6, 7-5, 6-4, in the most grueling matches of the day.

Hall, who will defend the doubles title here with Parker as his partner, disposed of Herbert L. Bowman, New York veteran, 6-2, 6-2.

Burtz Boulware, Jacksonville, Fla., net star teamed with Ge. e. Dunn, Merion, Pa., to defeat Lawrence A. Baker and Jack Gafael, Bayhead, N. J., tennis stars in the first round doubles, 6-1, 6-1.

In another first-round doubles match, Gardner Mulloy, Miami, Fla., and Paul Guibord, Melrose, Mass., defeated Robert Johnston and M. McHugh, New York, 6-3, 9-7.

THE BARBER TALKS

INSTALLMENT II.

"He came back twice that week to get shaved, and he said he was using it faithfully. Then he didn't come any more for about two weeks. He dropped in one afternoon and hung his hat up, and it nearly knocked me down when I saw the finest kind of a suit of hair had started on his head. It was growing splendidly, and only two weeks before his head had been as bald as a door knob.

"He said he was awfully pleased with my tonic, and well he might be. While I was shaving him I tried to think what the ingredients that I had written down for him to use, but I couldn't remember the quantities or half the things I had used. I knew I had accidentally struck upon a tonic that would make hair grow, and I knew furthermore that that formula was worth a million dollars to any man if it would do the work. Making hair grow on bald heads, if it could be done, would be better than any gold mine ever worked. I made up my mind to have that formula. When he was about to start away, I said carefully:

"By the way, Mr. Plunket, I have mislaid my memorandum book that has the formula of my tonic in it and I want to have a bottle or two prepared this morning. If you have the one I gave you I'd like to make a copy of it while you are here.

"I must have looked too anxious, for he looked at me for a few minutes and then broke out into a laugh.

"By Jiminy," he said, "I don't believe you've got a copy of it anywhere. I believe you just happened to hit on the right thing and you don't remember what it was. I ain't half as green as I look. The hair grower is worth a fortune, and a big one, too. I think I'll just keep my recipe and get somebody to put the stuff out and sell it."

"He started out, and I called him into the back room and talked to him half an hour.

"I finally made a trade with him and bought the formula back for $250 cash. I went up to the bank and got the money which I had been saving up to build a house. He then gave me back the recipe I had given him and signed a paper relinquishing all rights to it. He also agreed to sign a testimonial about the stuff having made his hair grow out in two weeks."

The barber began to look gloomy and ran his fingers inside the Post Man's shirt collar, tearing out the buttonhole, and the collar button flew out the door across the sidewalk into the gutter.

"I went to work next day," said the barber, "and filed application at Washington for a patent on my tonic and arranged with a big drug firm in Houston to put it on the market for me. I had a million dollars in sight. I fixed up a room where I mixed the tonic—for I wouldn't let the druggists or anybody else know what was in it—and then the druggists bottled and labeled it.

"I quit working in the shop and put all my time to my tonic.

"Mr. Plunket came into the shop once or twice within the next two weeks and his hair was still growing finely. Pretty soon I had about $200 worth of the tonic ready for the market, and Mr. Plunket gave me his testimonial to print on advertising dog-eareds and circulars with which I was going to flood the country.

"I was waiting in the room where I mixed my tonic about 11 o'clock Saturday when the door opened and Mr. Plunket came in. He was very excited and very angry.

"Look here," he cried, "what's the matter with your infernal stuff?"

"He pulled his hat, and his head was as shiny and bare as a china egg.

"It all came out," he said roughly. "It was growing all right until yesterday morning, when it commenced to fall out, and this morning there wasn't a hair left."

"I examined his head and there wasn't the ghost of a hair to be found anywhere.

"What's the good of your stuff," he asked angrily, "if it makes your hair grow and then all fall out again?"

"For heaven's sake, Mr. Plunket," I said, "don't say anything about it or you'll ruin me. I've got every cent I've got in the world invested in this hair tonic, and I've got to get my money back. It made your hair grow, give me the testimonial and let me sell what I've got put up, anyway. You are $250 ahead on it, and you ought to help me out of it."

"He was very mad and cut up quite roughly and said he had been

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

OUR BRILLIANT SUN.

II—Sunlight on the Planets.

The sun seems very bright to us, and gives us plenty of light and heat. Let us see what it does for other planets.

Two of the planets—Mercury and Venus—get far more light than we do. Mercury is closest of all to the sun, and if people lived on it, the sun would look far larger to them than it does to us. One side of Mercury always faces the sun, and has daylight "forever." The other side is always dark, except for a little light from the stars. No moon goes around Mercury.

Differences in sun size if seen from five planets.

There is little, if any, chance that living things exist on Mercury—at least not living beings of any kind we know. The planet is not fitted for either plants or animals.

Venus, on the other hand, may be the home of both plant and animal life, but the thick clouds around it would keep the sun from being seen clearly by anyone living there. If it were not for the clouds, the sun would look larger to people on Venus than it does to us.

As to the famous planet, Mars, I shall have little to say today, because I plan to write three articles about it the coming week. For the present, I shall just mention that the sun would look smaller from Mars than from the earth.

The very large planets are less favored by the sun than any I have named. The giant Jupiter is more than five times as far from the sun as the earth. This means that the sun would look small, indeed, to Jupiter folk—if there were any.

We have been hearing during the past few years a good deal of talk about the "six-hour working day." That would be shorter than the present custom on earth, but it would seem far too long to workers on Jupiter. They probably would ask for a two-hour day. Daylight on Jupiter lasts only five hours, for the planet whirls around in the space of just about 10 hours. In the other hand the year is longer than ours. To make one full journey around the sun, Jupiter takes almost 12 of the years we count on earth.

Except for possible action of volcanoes, Jupiter must be a frozen world. The same is true, to an even greater extent, for the far planets—Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto.

From the farthest planet, Pluto, the sun would look like a tiny thing—hardly the size of a cherry. Pluto is 39 times as far from the sun as the earth is.

Engaging in some good-sized prices that at one time had slipped up to new high of 13.28, the cotton market absorbed considerable profit taking in today's session and ended 6 to 9 points higher.

After yesterday's sharp advance of more than $3 a bale, the early realizing sales and long liquidation that characterized early dealings were expected. This movement carried operations under the 15 cent level for July and around 7 points for other positions.

When good buying developed and absorbed this type of offering, the market climbed around $1.50 a bale. Another late selling wave cut down these gains and Oct. finished 6 points higher at 12.44. Dec. was up 9 points at 12.45 and May gained a similar amount to 12.47.

Hedge selling made up a good portion of today's offerings. Reports that heavy sales of long cotton had taken place in the interior were believed to be the reason for the increase in this type of offering.

Foreign markets were disappointing. Liverpool did not come in as good as due and cables reported considerable hedging in the English market. Weather reports were about as expected.

Corpus Christi wired that ginnings are making good progress in the lower Rio Grande valley, with one estimate placing cotton ginned so far this season above 1,000 bales.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—From prices have caught and passed the price level prevailing before the war. The drawback is that farmers pay about one-fifth more for what they usually buy. In other words, a farmer's dollar goes no further than 85 cents to 90 cents in pre-war times. Still the returns have gained a little upon the costs during the past year.

LEHMAN PRAISED FOR PRESIDENCY

U. S. Surgeon General Lauds Governor at Hospital Dedication.

ONEONTA, N. Y., July 9.—(AP)—New York state dedicated the Home Folks hospital, second of its tuberculosis sanatoria, today in exercises that brought a reference to Governor Lehman as presidential timber.

Dr. Thomas Parran Jr., surgeon general of the United States, paid that tribute to the Governor after eulogizing the public health works of Homer Folks for whom the institution is named.

Declaring that Governor Lehman's decision to stand for re-election is an "assurance that we shall continue to have in New York state a progressive and humane governor dedicated to advancing the health, security and welfare of the people of the state," Dr. Parran added:

"Many of these people, I am sure, share with me in a hope, yes, more than a hope—I believe a conviction, that we may have four years from now the opportunity of voting for the same man as president of the United States."

Later, the surgeon general declared that he was "simply expressing my own admiration and conviction." Governor Lehman declined to comment.

HANSEN CITES DANGER TO FREEDOM OF PRESS

LEWISBURG, Pa., July 9.—(AP)—Elisha Hansen, attorney for the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, said tonight the "propagandist" is the "greatest danger to freedom of the press in America."

In a speech prepared for students of propaganda at Bucknell University, Hansen said it seeks to "poison" the news and publishers and editors must be vigilant against it.

Hansen defined propaganda as "a scheme for the propagation of an idea, a doctrine or a practice" and said the propagandist's business is to "disseminate only that information which serves his purpose."

He criticized the New Deal, saying it hired more newspapermen to write news for the government than were employed by the newspapers and press associations in Washington to write the news for the people.

SECOND WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE FROM HUSING

RENO, Nev., July 9.—(AP)—Celia Ryland, actress wife of Edward B. (Ted) Husing, radi sports announcer, has established residence here for divorce, it became known today.

"A divorce suit will be filed by Mrs. Husing about the middle of August," Attorney Robert Z. Hawkins said. "She and Mr. Husing have found they were incompatible and the charge in the divorce case probably will be mental cruelty."

Husing and the actress were married last April 27 at Harrison, N. Y. His first marriage ended in a Reno divorce in July, 1934. An uncontested decree was obtained by Mrs. Helen G. Husing.

Atlanta Jaycees Greet National Official

Atlanta Jaycees were hosts at their weekly luncheon-meeting, held yesterday in the civil room of the Ansley hotel, to Roswell P. Rosengren, of Buffalo, N. Y. Rosengren, a director of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, was the guest speaker at the luncheon. Left to right, above, are J. B. ## Jaycees Greatest Hope of Nation, Says U. S. Director, Speaking Here

It is up to the young men of the country, organized in the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, to lead the country to greater heights, Roswell P. Rosengren, of Buffalo, N. Y., a director of the United States Junior Chamber, told Atlanta Jaycees at their luncheon-meeting yesterday afternoon.

"The junior chamber is the organization of the greatest young men of the greatest country in the world," the speaker said. "We are not organized, as are the young men of other countries, into blue, green or yellow shirts with the purpose of establishing dictatorships."

He went on to emphasize that the junior chamber was organized to do the greatest good in each community and in the nation. To illustrate his point, the speaker showed how his local chamber, Buffalo, discovered citizens owed the city $7,000,000 in back taxes.

The organization embarked on a campaign to see those taxes paid up. Press, radio and 50,000 handbills were used to propagandize the idea and in a short time, $3,500,000 of the $7,000,000 owed was collected by the local chamber for the city, Rosengren said.

"We young men are going to carry this country farther toward the sun," Rosengren continued. "I firmly believe the young men of this country are the greatest potentiality for the greatest potential good. It is up to us, the young men, to lead the way."

Rosengren, who is only 34 years of age, has been head of the University of Buffalo department of public speaking for the last 11 years and is a member of a buffalo law firm. He holds degrees from Colgate University and the University of Buffalo. 1924 Rosengren was a member of the American team which went to Eng-

ECONOMIST STRESSES RAILROAD UNIFICATION

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—A national policy dealing with transportation as a "single, unified problem" was urged by C. S. Duncan, economist for the Association of American Railroads, in a book published today. Such a policy, he contended, should "foster and preserve all modes of transportation" proven useful to the country.

He maintained, as one of his major points, that private ownership and operation of railroads should be "preserved and supported as an announced public policy."

Hapsburgs' Return May Be Halted By Reported Austro-German Pact

VIENNA, July 9.—(AP)—Germany and Austria, strongly prompted by Italy, have reached an extensive accord which would temporarily prevent a Hapsburg restoration, diplomatic quarters believed tonight.

Legitimists, however, were still keeping up a show of courage in face of a 7-point accord in principle worked out in negotiations between Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg and Franz von Papen, German minister to Austria.

A source close to Italian and German diplomatic circles said the negotiations, now in the third week, almost broke down, but after promptings by Italy, the two nations were on a substantial agreement on these seven points:

1. Nazi party ban in Austria to be continued.
2. National elements (friendly extension of German, but not necessarily of Nazi influence) to be permitted activities.
3. National exponents to be included in Austrian cabinet not later than fall.
4. Germany's willingness to support all Austrian measures aimed at equality, which might, for example, include the building up of the Austrian army to 400,000 or 500,000 men.
5. Amnesty for persons convicted or in concentration camps for Nazi activity.
6. At least a part of Austria's Nazi refugees now in Germany to be allowed to return home unpunished.
7. Efforts at trade normalization including lifting of Germany's 1,000-mark visa requirements for Germans going to Austria.

(This has hurt Austrian tourist trade.)

Diplomatic circles stated no formal announcement of the accord was contemplated until fall.

Official quarters were maintaining strict silence and the regular foreign office press conference was cancelled today.

Earlier today a spokesman for the Heimwehr (home guard) said Italy and Germany had reached an agreement concerning the Austrian situation, which besides forestalling the restoration of the Archduke Otto for at least three years, included Germany's recognition of Italian sovereignty in Ethiopia and Germany's guarantee of Austria's independence for three years.

MERGE OF RAILROADS IS ADVOCATED BY RFC

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—A suggestion that two railroads—the Western Pacific and the Denver & Rio Grande Western—merge into a new system stretching from Denver to the west coast, was advanced today by Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Corporation.

Both roads are indebted to the RFC and both are in process of reorganization.

A reorganization plan for the Western Pacific now is pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission and the D. & R. G. W. is expected to submit one shortly.

The Reconstruction Corporation has been approached for assistance in both reorganizations.

INCREASE IS SHOWN IN FOREIGN TRADE

National Association Issues Mid-Year Statement of Exports and Imports.

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—American foreign trade is making progress toward recovery in world markets at the midway turn, the National Foreign Trade Council and Association said today in a statement.

The six months' trade, the council estimated, will reach a total of $2,300,000,000, with only a slight difference between values of exports and imports.

"American raw cotton," the report said, "although competing with new sources of supply, is meeting this competition with increasing success. As of June 30, exports of American cotton totaled 6,088,186 bales for the season as compared with 4,806,970 a year ago."

Industrial machinery accounts for the largest growth in exports, followed closely by petroleum products, raw cotton, automobiles, agricultural implements, electrical machinery and apparatus, and chemicals, the trade organization said.

FUNDS FOR DEMOCRATS. COLUMBIA, S. C., July 9.—(AP)—Governor Olin Johnston announced today plans for launching a drive in South Carolina for funds for the national democratic campaign. The governor, honorary state chairman, said a campaign contribution office would be opened here July 15 with Mrs. J. H. Jennings, of Columbia, national committeewoman, in charge.

Nazis Form World's Largest Union Work To Beautify Members' Lives

BERLIN, July 9.—(AP)—Nazism, enrolling 25 million men and women in the Nazi labor front, claimed today the world's biggest "union."

Membership is compulsory for all German workers, employees and employers. And since the organization has an estimated revenue of nearly a billion marks ($400,000,000) annually, it is regarded as the national socialist party's most powerful and self-sustaining propaganda apparatus.

This "Arbeitsfront" is the sole successor of the former Marxist, nationalist and partly confessional trade unions and employers' associations as well, all of which were wiped out when the Nazis "legally confiscated" their estates by an all-embracing process of "gleichschaltung"—or co-ordination under pressure.

Since a strike is regarded as high treason and would be treated accordingly, and "salary increases now are impossible," according to Robert Ley, stout little leader of the organization, the labor front has turned its efforts toward "beautifying life" for its members.

It tries to do this by a special set-up called "power through joy." Construction of five giant beach resorts on the North sea and the Baltic at a cost of roughly 250 million marks ($100,000,000) is one of the main points of the program.

Under the slogan, "enjoy your life," the "power through joy" formation also is selling mass vacation travel to a multitude of its members. For several years the organization has been sending its small fleet of three ocean-going steamers to the Canary islands and the Scandinavian coast. Thirty more steamers planned to enlarge the fleet.

The organization also plansification of German hamlets and villages, "to make life more agreeable for the German farmer."

It owns a number of theaters, offers courses in professional education and sport, besides subsidizing construction of cottages for the service and automobile road building.

DARDANELLE SESSION IS LEFT DEADLOCK

MONTREUX, Switzerland, July 9.—(AP)—The Dardanelles conference was deadlocked tonight as the mania delegate departed for home.

Foreign Minister Nicolas Titu delivered a broadside against the stand in regulating warship passage through the straits and the for Bucharest to "calm his home."

The conference was suspended till Monday to give the delegates time to think the situation. One delegate said he wouldn't be surprised if the conference "cracked" due to critical divergences of opinion.

The conference storm started Russia introduced an amendment throwing the Dardanelles open, in war time, to all warships open against a state which the League Nations branded an aggressor which were fulfilling the decisive regional ententes.
